WASHINGTON, July 2.—American troops sent overseas numbered 1,019,155 on July 1.

This was made known tonight by President Wilson, who gave to the public a letter from Secretary Baker disclosing a record of achievement which the President said "must cause universal satisfaction" and which "will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July."

June saw this number increased by 12,[illegible] and thereafter khaki-clad "crusaders" from the western republic flowed overseas in a steady stream until upwards of 300,000 had departed when the great German thrust began last March.

British Beat Off Three Attacks.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, July 2.—After an intense bombardment the Germans last night began an attack on the positions the British gained Sunday night when they drove the enemy from important high ground southeast of Bouzincourt to the north of Albert.

On the northern end of the line involved the enemy succeeded in reclaiming a few of his old positions. At all other points he was repulsed and badly punished.

Three separate assaults were driven forward by the gray coats on the British right, but each time they were hurled back. On the left, the enemy made better progress and in the early stages of the battle regained a part of his former defenses.

The British immediately organized a counter-attack which was carried out with such spirit that the Germans were forced to fall back from a part of the recovered positions.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—American-built 155-millimeter howitzers are now moving to France, supplementing the equipment of Gen. Pershing's troops heretofore obtained from French ordnance factories.

These facts were disclosed today to newspaper correspondents from Washington who visited the new army proving ground at Aberdeen, Md.

The howitzers, which are of French design, are of approximately 6-inch bore, and are the heavy barrage guns which support an infantry advance against an intrenched position.

BE-JUMPERED SHIP WORKERS TURN MUSICIANS AND WELCOME THEM.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and Charles Piez, vice-president and superintendent of steel ship construction, who will witness the greatest ship launching event in the history of the world here, July 4, arrived in San Francisco at 5:30 p.m. today.

Twenty-five members of the Union Iron Works Band laid down their shipbuilding tools, took up their musical instruments and joined with high army and naval officers and officials of the city in giving the distinguished visitors a rousing welcome. Dressed in overalls and without removing the grime and grease incidental to their work, the employees blared out martial airs as the welcoming parade proceeded through the business section of the city.

A delegation including Mayor James Rolph, Jr.; Capt. A. F. Pillsbury, head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation in the San Francisco district; J. J. Tynan, general manager of the Union Iron Works of the Bethlehem Steel Company; Maj.-Gen. John Morrison, head of the Western Department of the United States Army, and navy officers, met the Schwab party at Fort Costa and escorted them to San Francisco.

Mr. Schwab later held an informal reception in his hotel apartment to city officials and army and navy officers. He said:

"I am here to speed up construction in the shipyards along the Pacific Coast, and if any particular yard does not seem to be doing its full share it must 'get up in the collar,' but I do not expect to find any slacker shipyards.

"The splendid spirit of the American people is to be complimented. The true American war spirit extends from coast to coast." He is scheduled to visit local shipyards tomorrow.

Charge of Italians Clears Peak.

Allied Forces Sweep up Side of Mountain on Heels of Fleeing Foe.

BY AUSTIN WEST.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

MILAN, July 1.—The recapture of Val Bella Mountain, with more than 800 prisoners, finally wrests from the Austrians the only position of importance that remained to them as a reward for the June offensive. Towering 4000 feet as a sentinel over the Frenzela Valley, on its western side, this peak constituted a point of union between the Italian forces there and the French defenses along Costa Lunga.

This is the second time the Italians have retaken Val Bella. They first lost it last Christmas—when Conrad von Hotzendorf was trying to make his way down to Bassano over the Marostica hills. The gallant Sardinians of the Sassari brigade cleared the enemy off the peak last January 29, and took several hundred prisoners and warded off successfully a series of very severe counter-attacks.

When the June onslaught upon Gen. Montouri's mixed Italo-French-British army began, the Val Bella intrenchments on the right flank were advanced within 300 yards of the enemy lines at Portechicoo so that after five hours of fierce bombardment the trenches, of course, were utterly destroyed and the Allied Sixth Army had no choice but to fall back on its right.

CREST RETAKEN.

Before sunrise on Saturday, however, the Italians, with our British and French gunners, determined to leave Austria nothing whatever to boast about, were pummeling all the enemy positions in this sector. At 5 o'clock the big French patrols, starting from Costa Lunga, feigned a surprise attack against Sisemel. Meantime other Allied bands clambered up the gullies of Val Bella, wrecking one by one with hand bombs the Austrian machine guns hidden in every cranny along the rugged ridge, which was defended by troops belonging to four Austro-Hungarian divisions, including the far-famed Edelweiss regiment commanded by Emperor Charles in person during the strafe expedition two years ago. At 6 o'clock the Allied infantry were gripping the peak on

ARMY CHEERED BY LAUNCHINGS.

Big Splash Thursday Occasions Cablegrams from Pershing.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—"No more defiant answer could be given to the enemy's challenge."

This was the message received from Gen. Pershing in reply to Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, informing the American fighting men in France that the shipbuilders at home would launch 100 merchant ships July 4.

"The launching of 100 ships on the Fourth of July is the most inspiring news there has come to us," Gen. Pershing said. "All ranks of the army in France send their congratulations and heartfelt thanks to their patriotic brothers in the shipyards at home. No more defiant answer could be given to the enemy's challenge. With such backing we cannot fail to win. All hail American shipbuilders."

Chairman Hurley's message to the army said:

"Not by delaying a single ship, but by speeding to the utmost, the American shipyards will launch nearly 100 ships July 4. On this one day, celebrating nation's independence and backing up boys in the trenches, the men in the shipyards will launch 450,000 deadweight tons, as much as was launched in six months last year.

"Your inspiring leadership of the American army in France has thrilled the shipyard workers, and if the time comes when you need even the shipyard men over there they will go, to the last man.

"We want you and the boys in the trenches to know that men in the yards are going the limit to provide in record-breaking time the ships that will carry more men, food and munitions to the intrepid American Expeditionary Forces."

MARNE FIGHTING.

AMERICAN BLOW IMPORTANT.

[Undated War Summary by the Associated Press.]

Hurling themselves at the tip of the salient driven into the Allied lines by the Germans late in May, the Americans and French have won important ground near Chateau Thierry. The attack was local in character, but its success may prove important in the future operations in that part of the battle front nearest Paris.

The assault was aimed at the hamlet of Vaux, which is situated on the south side of the Chateau Thierry-Paris road, and on the northern slopes of Hill 204. Vauz is about two miles from Chateau Thierry. This was carried by the rush of the French and Americans, who also occupied two small patches of woods in the immediate vicinity.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY.

The Germans almost immediately began counter-attacks in an attempt to regain the lost positions, but their efforts failed in every way. In the initial attack, and in their repeated assaults against the new lines held by the Allies, the Germans have suffered very heavy losses, at least 500 prisoners having been taken by the French and Americans.

One entire German regiment is officially reported to have been virtually annihilated in the battle.

A thrilling air battle between nine American airplanes and an equal number of German machines is reported in the Chateau Thierry sector. At least three German planes were destroyed, while two American machines have failed to return from the encounter.

HILL LESS SECURE.

On June 7 the French reported that they had recaptured Hill 204, a height dominating the city of Chateau Thierry. It appears, however, that the Germans have been holding at least part of the height, or that they have by an attack which has not been reported, succeeded in occupying the hill once more. The Allied attack on the north side will tend to make the enemy's position on the hill less secure and may force the Germans to relocate their line from the Marne northward to Torcy, where the Americans have been successful in several fights and have won important ground.

WORK-OR-FIGHT RULES NOT FOR OLDER MEN.

CROWDER EXPLAINS THOSE OUTSIDE DRAFT AGES NOT AFFECTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Commenting on the new work-or-fight regulations, Provost-Marshal-General Crowder emphasized today that the order does not affect men outside of draft ages. Several communities apparently have confused it with anti-loafer laws in some States.

Gen. Crowder explained that the work-or-fight order is purely a military step, and that regulations regarding employment or military service for unregistered men are not embraced in his functions. The only effect the order has upon persons not subject to draft is that it offers them more opportunities of employment. Places vacated by men liable to draft necessarily are left open for men outside of the draft, he explained.

Of the service performed by men who leave nonessential pursuits to take up essential work, Gen. Crowder said:

TO FREE FIGHTERS.

"The army and navy are taking the men who are best able physically to do the fighting. But that is only one part of the national task imposed by the war. The other part, the part that falls on the other men, is to set free these men that are to do the fighting. Every man who helps to set free a fighting man is helping to fight and win the war.

"Now many of the men of draft age in deferred classes—two, three and four—deferred, that is on grounds of dependency—are not engaged in effective industry. The spectacle is not a satisfying one, of a contingent of drafted men from class one being marched down the street to camp, while other men of their own age, watching them from the windows, remain behind to sell cigarettes or dispense soda fountain drinks, solely because they have received deferment on grounds of dependency.

GET USEFUL JOBS.

"If these men of the same age are to stay behind let them at least get into work more effective to help win the war. The deferment takes them out of military service and yet serves no economic war purpose whatsoever. They are of military age and therefore have the primary duty to do war work. If their dependency gives them deferment from immediate military war work, let them at least do something economically useful to maintain the nation's welfare while at war.

"They should get into some useful and effective occupations or else forfeit their deferment from military service. The alternative is a fair one."

AMERICANS REFUSE TO GIVE FOOT OF GROUND.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE MARNE FRONT, July 2.—A counter-attack by the Germans today against the new positions won last night by the American forces to the west of Chateau Thierry was completely broken up. The Americans did not give up a foot of ground which they had captured.

The German counter-attack, which was fiercely conducted, was launched against the American positions at 4 o'clock this morning. It resulted in the Americans further increasing their number of prisoners. Virtually the remainder of the enemy attacking force was annihilated.

The total number of Germans captured by the Americans is now estimated to number about five hundred, including seven officers.

Many groups of prisoners have been sent to the rear. Others have been located in hospitals, where they were taken after being wounded.

There was hot fighting today in front of Hill 204, which is in the hands of the Germans. At 5 o'clock this evening the American artillery was engaged in heavily shelling the position.

Reports from the advanced front brought back through a heavy enemy barrage confirmed the earlier statements that the Americans have reached their every objective and are holding every point.

OUR MEN CAPTURE SLICE OF PARIS ROAD.

In a brilliant operation after hard fighting, American troops on this front last night captured the village of Vaux, together with a large slice of the Paris highway west of Chateau Thierry and two patches of wooded land.

OUR TROOPS TO NUMBER FOUR MILLION THIS YEAR.

BY ROBERT D. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Four million Americans will be under arms and in uniform before January 1, 1919. On June 27 the United States had under arms and in uniform 2,500,000 men. This is the testimony of Gen. R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster of the American army, given before one of the subcommittees of the House Committee on Appropriations and just made public. He showed the committee that all the buying for the army is being made on the basis of 4,000,000 men in service by the end of this year and that already the Quartermaster's Department has successfully equipped and carried to camps and overseas all the necessary clothing and equipment for the army of 2,500,000 now mustered into service.

In explaining the need for an appropriation for the Quartermaster's Department alone of more than a billion dollars, Gen. Wood gave the figures and in the course of his testimony repeated the figures several times and said he was violating no military secrets. In describing the sudden increase of half a million men in three months, he said:

PROGRAMME EXCEEDED.

"On the 28th of February the General Staff gave Gen. Goethals the military programme which was supposed to go until June 30, 1919. That called for 100,000 men per month to be called during 1918—that is, 100,000 men in March, 100,000 men in April, 100,000 men in May, and 100,000 men in June, etc. After this drive began with less than thirty days notice, the call for April was increased to over 200,000 men; during April, with less than thirty days notice, the call for May was increased to over 300,000 and last month, without any notice, the June call was increased to approximately 300,000.

"That meant that the net increase in three months was 800,000 men, less 300,000 or 500,000 additional men called to the colors with practically no notice at all, which was almost equal to the entire draft of last September. So far as I know—and I imagine we would hear from it right away—there is no soldier who has not been properly fed, clothed and equipped."

One of the most interesting bits of Gen. Wood's testimony was the army plan of salvage which will save over $100,000,000 a year. Speaking of this plan, Gen. Wood said:

"On the 12th day of April, we put into the General Staff two proposed orders. One provided for a conservation and reclamation battalion which would amount to about 30[illegible] men for each camp of 27,000 men, these men to be men unfit for active service, who would operate a laundry, dry cleaning plant, shoe repair shop, a hat repair shop and a rendering plant for the waste food products. Now, that order has finally been issued. Of course, it is a new thing in our army, and it required a little argument with the staff; but it has been issued and they promise us their full support. Every pair of shoes will be turned in, instead of having the old shoes condemned or sold. They will be turned in, repaired and reissued. That whole thing is new and the returns from it are very incomplete.

"I have the report for April and the report for May which show that we are getting back on an average 200,000 pairs of shoes per month. In the case of blankets—and blankets are expensive articles—of those turned in less than 10 per cent. has to be thrown away, and even then they were not thrown away, in the sense that they were sold for rags. Ninety per cent. of them will be reissued. I expect through this reclamation policy to save—and I think I am very safe in making this estimate—between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year."

THE GREAT WAR. American troops capture Hill 204 and annihilate German regiment opposing them. German counter-attacks against our men west of Chateau Thierry are complete failure. The village of St. Pierre Aigle is again in French hands.

Austrian forces are driven from last position captured by them in initial rush of their June offensive. Italian, British and French troops capture Val Bella mountain at point of bayonet.

British forces suffer intense bombardment by Germans southeast of Bouzincourt, to the north of Albert. Germans attack three times following shells and are repulsed each time. Where weakened line gave back at start, British counter-attacks almost regain all lost terrain.

Germany's expected blow against the Allied lines on the west front still hangs fire. What activity there is is due to the Allied raids, which have been nibbling at the German positions day by day. Activity behind the enemy's line is reported on a vast scale, but the Hun has given no sign of where he intends to attack, if he does intend.

Submarines are already supposed to be in this sea, and a German-Finnish detachment has been located at Patchenga on the Fjord of Varanger, near the Norwegian coast.

Another hostile detachment is supposed to be scarcely a hundred miles away from Kola, where Allied and American naval forces are guarding the railroad and war stores.

ENSLAVED RACES.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LUGANO, July 2.—One of the things that are slowly but surely turning Swiss opinion against Germany is their treatment of the people of occupied territories. A few days ago the press was moved to anger by the news that 20,000 Finnish Red Guards had been shipped to Germany. This figure is enormous considering the number of the Finnish population. Belgians and Finns, however, only account for a faction of Germany's slaves. Numerically, the most important are the Poles. The news is now published that the Poles in captivity number 700,000. The mortality among them is high on account of the underfeeding. Fugitives who try to return to their own homes are severely punished, generally together with one or two relatives. These Poles, who, remembering that the so-called Polish government now exists in Warsaw, write to it protesting against their enslavement, find their letters returned indorsed "Verboten."

"Sink Without Trace," Revealed as Germany's Submarine Policy Toward Hospital Ships

Outdoing Pirates.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Plans for the sailing of the American hospital ship Comfort, which it was proposed to send through the submarine zone without convoy, have been delayed by the ruthless destruction of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle. It is not yet decided whether the original plans will be changed.

Before sinking the Llandovery Castle, the German submarine commander charged that the vessel carried American flight officers, and a similar claim has been made when other British hospital ships were sunk. No American combatant troops have been carried by British hospital ships nor would any but noncombatants be carried on the Comfort.

A high naval official pointed out today that all nations are notified of the time of the sailing of a hospital ship, its course and the time of its return, and said that naturally the question arises as to the advisability of following the rules of international law in this respect with the sailing of the Comfort when Germany refuses to recognize these rules.

Secretary Daniels declined to discuss the matter today further than to say that the Comfort is not ready to sail and that no time for her departure for Europe to bring home American wounded has been set.

LONDON, July 2.—A thorough search of the waters in the vicinity of the spot where the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was sunk by a German submarine has resulted in no further survivors being found. An official statement issued by the Admiralty says it may be assumed that only twenty-four out of the 258 persons on board were saved.

That the sinking of hospital ships is a deliberate policy on the part of the Germans now is placed beyond all doubt by the torpedoing of the British hospital ship Llandovery Castle, the newspapers say in the editorial comment today.

"In the presence of such unspeakable infamy deliberately repeated," says the Daily Chronicle, "it is a waste of breath to reiterate the abhorrence which everybody, with a spark of civilized sense must feel. But we would invite the German people to see for themselves what is the use of their statesmen appealing, like Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann, to be credited 'with probity and honor' while crimes so odious, dishonorable and unashamed continue to be carried out by the orders of their government."

LIE AS EXCUSE.

The excuse for the attack on the Llandovery Castle, says the Daily Mail, was a lie, and the German officer who told it did not believe it himself when he said to the captain:

"You are carrying eight American flight officers."

If there had been a particle of truth in the charge, the newspaper adds, the submarine captain had only to stop the Llandovery Castle, seize the eight officers, and take them to Germany, as proof of Allied guilt in using hospital ships for transports.

The Daily News declares the sinking of the hospital ship stands out as "one of the most horrible incidents in the hideous story of submarine warfare."

"WITHOUT A TRACE."

In no circumstance of the tragedy, declares the Times, does the story differ from those of other hospital ships that have been destroyed. In this case, however, it points out there is an added element of horror in the repeated attempt of the submarine commander to justify himself by accusations against the victim and in his wild fury of gunfire and destructive rushing to and fro among the wreckage.

"If these were not attempts to sink all the survivors and blot out all trace of the crime, what was their motive?"

ADMIRALTY STATEMENT.

The Admiralty statement says:

"The area between the spot where the Llandovery Castle was sunk and the southwest Irish coast has been thoroughly searched by two groups of His Majesty's ships in addition to H.M.S. (destroyer) Lysander. Only a little wreckage and one empty boat were found. It may be assumed that there are no more survivors from the Llandovery Castle."

Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking in the House of Commons today, said that one would have thought that nothing new as regards German brutality could have happened, but the sinking of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle was an unspeakable outrage. Nothing could be gained, he added, by talking about this last example of frightfulness.

"The wild beast is at large," said Mr. Bonar Law. "There is no use arguing or reasoning about it. The only thing to do is to destroy it. That is the duty, and it is up to all the Allies to set their teeth until that end is achieved."

Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, who was in charge of the sisters aboard the hospital ship Llandovery Castle, torpedoed by a German submarine off the Irish coast.

DANISH SHIP SUNK.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, July 2.—The Danish steamship Indien was attacked and sunk by a German submarine, with a loss of twenty-seven members of the steamship's crew, of the Indien, on March 21, it was learned with the arrival here today of nine survivors from the Indien. The vessel, bound from France to an American port, was sunk by shell-fire after the crew had taken to four lifeboats. Three of these boats were lost in a storm. The men who perished included Capt. Keiuruloff.

According to H. C. Tversted, second officer of the Indien, the U-boat was encountered late in the afternoon, and it began shelling the vessel without warning. The German commander called Capt. Keiuruloff to the U-boat and took from him the ship's papers. He gave the lifeboats the course to the Azores, and then sent one of his men to the Indien. The German lowered the Danish flag and stuffed it into his shirt. The shelling was resumed, and soon the vessel sank.

The men who survived were six and one-half days reaching land. On the second day, a heavy storm came up, and the other three boats were lost.

The survivors, after several weeks in an Azores hospital, were placed on a steamer for a Spanish port, from which they sailed on the ship which arrived here today.

THREE FOE, TWO OF OUR FLYERS DOWN IN FIGHT.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, July 2.—An American air squadron composed of nine machines had a thrilling half-hour fight this morning north of Chateau Thierry with a German flight squadron of the same number. At least three of the German planes were driven down plunging to the earth, and up to 6 o'clock tonight two of the Americans had not returned.

The American airmen, acting as a patrolling party, came upon the enemy shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning, and immediately attacked. With the advantage of the offensive, the Americans succeeded in getting above their adversaries and after furious exchanges at an altitude of more than two miles, drove the Germans down a mile.

Two of the American aviators saw one of the Nieuports, driven by an American pilot, go into a dive and disappear, but three American pilots have reported that they observed tracers go through the fuselage of three enemy machines within a few minutes of each other, the planes crashing earthward.

The fighting was fast and all kinds of maneuvers were brought into play. Finally the Germans made off hurriedly.

When the Americans returned to their field they found one machine had been struck thirteen times; one bullet grazed the gas tank, another cut a strut, while the fuselage was like a sieve.

The American pilots credited with bringing down the German planes are William J. Hoover of Hartsville, S. C.; Alfred A. Grant of Denton, Tex., and John MacArthur of Buffalo, N. Y.

DOWN FORTY-TWO GERMANS.

LONDON, July 2.—British airmen yesterday disposed of forty-two German airplanes and three balloons, according to the official report on aerial operations issued tonight. Of the airplanes, twenty-five were destroyed, fifteen were driven down out of control and two landed behind the British lines, where their occupants were captured.

The statement adds:

"Eight of our machines are missing.

"Twenty-two tons of bombs were dropped during the day and thirteen tons during the night. All our night flying machines returned safely."

The independent force communication on aerial operations says:

"During the night of July 1-2 the enemy's airdrome at Boulay was successfully attacked, bursts being observed on the airdrome and hutments. The Oppau works, soda factory and railway line at Mannheim were bombed with good effect, as also were the railway works at Thionville.

"On July 2 bombs were dropped on the railway station at Treves. Our formation was attacked over its objectives by twelve enemy machines, one of which was shot down.

"The railway sidings and sheds at Coblenz were bombed with good results. All our machines returned safely."

CUBA FULL OF BEANS, SHIPMENTS SHUT OFF.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The issuance of licenses to ship beans to Cuba has been suspended temporarily on account of a congestion of supplies on the island, it was announced by the United States Food Administration for California today. According to the announcement, Cuba consumes more beans than any other country of a like population.

It was announced also that the pink bean requirements of the army and navy have been met for the time being, but that further supplies may be necessary soon. The public was urged to buy more pink beans as a substitute for meat.

STATEMENTS BY WAR OFFICES.

PARIS, July 2.—The village of Vaux, west of Chateau Thierry and the heights to the west of Vaux were captured last night by American troops in an operation on the Marne front carried out in conjunction with the French, the War Office announced today.

More than 300 prisoners, including five officers, were captured in this action.

The success has resulted in an improvement in the Allied line between Hill 204 and the vicinity of Vaux.

The French carried out raids on the front between Montdidier and Noyon and eastward of Rheims in which prisoners were taken. German raiders were driven off by the French fire near Belloy and in upper Alsace. The statement reads:

"To the west of Chateau Thierry a local operation carried out in conjunction with the Americans enabled the French to improve their positions on the front of Vaux-Hill 204. The village of Vaux and the heights to the west of the village were captured by American troops. The number of prisoners taken during this action exceeds 300, including five officers.

"Raiding operations carried out between Montdidier and Noyon and to the east of Rheims resulted in the taking of a few prisoners.

The official statement issued tonight reads:

"Between the Aisne and the Oise we repulsed two enemy attacks east of Vingre.

"South of the Aisne a local operation enabled us to occupy the village of St. Pierre Aigle, where we took about 200 prisoners.

"West of Chateau Thierry, German counter-attacks against the positions captured in the region of Vaux by the Americans completely failed. Additional prisoners remained in our hands.

"Eastern theater, July 1: The day was calm along the whole front. British aviators bombed enemy establishments in the Rupel Valley."

BRITISH.

LONDON, July 2.—German troops last night, after a strong bombardment, attacked to the northwest of Albert, north of the Somme, in an attempt to regain the positions lost to the British on Sunday night. The enemy succeeded in gaining a footing in one of the British trenches, the War Office announces, but elsewhere were repulsed with loss.

The statement reads:

"An attack carried out by the enemy last night under a heavy bombardment northwest of Albert to recapture the ground taken by us Sunday night was repulsed with loss except at one point, where the enemy succeeded in gaining a footing in one of our trenches.

"The enemy attempted raids in the neighborhood of Aveluy Wood, Avion and Hinges. The attempts were repulsed.

"A few prisoners were captured in patrol encounters."

Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters tonight says that, beyond the normal artillery activity on both sides in various sectors, there was nothing to report.

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Another quiet day along the American fronts was reported by Gen. Pershing today in a communique for yesterday, sent before the successful operations last night west of Chateau Thierry, described in press dispatches. An American aviator shot down an enemy machine in the Toul region.

Capture of thirty-three prisoners, including one officer, in the Picardy sector, June 29, was mentioned. The American party penetrated the German line and took the enemy by surprise.

The communique follows:

"Section A. The day has passed quietly at points occupied by our troops. Yesterday one of our aviators shot down a hostile machine in the Toul region.

"Section B. In Picardy June 27 and June 28, the enemy's artillery fire was much lighter. It was directed largely against the region of Grivenes. The activity of his airplanes showed decrease as regards reconnaissance work, coupled with a marked increase in bombing operations. During the night bombs were scattered over a considerable part of our sector. The enemy continued to strengthen his position. Hostile patrols attempted to reach our lines, but either retired without establishing contact or were driven off by rifle fire. Our own artillery operated effectively on the German front lines and also in his rear, where one of his ammunition dumps exploded. One of his balloons was brought down in flames by an Allied airplane.

"In the Picardy sector the day of June 28-29 was notable in the success of our raiding. Our party penetrated the German lines in the region of Chateau Jenlis. We captured thirty-three prisoners, including an officer, a number nearly equal to our party. We destroyed several dugouts and machine guns. Our casualties were small. The German artillery was fairly quiet. Our positions around Villers Tournelle and Cantigny were bombarded. In connection with our attack counter-preparation fire changing into a barrage was laid down by the hostile batteries. The barrage extended from the Fontaine Wood as far north as Grivenes. There was little trench-mortar or machine-gun fire during the day. The German airplanes did comparatively little reconnaissance work, but during the night dropped a number of small bombs on our positions and in the course of the afternoon made several attempts to destroy our balloons.

"In the case of one balloon they were successful, but at the cost of one of their machines, which was shot down in flames by a French plane. Our anti-aircraft batteries forced other German airplanes to retire. A number of wagons were observed during the day in the German rear areas, but the circulation there was not notable in any respect. Of the German working parties, which continued their activities of the preceding days, one was bombed by an American patrol and another dispersed by our artillery.

"Particulars of the raids attempted by German troops on our forces in the Colmar sector June 27 are now available. They were preceded by a machine-gun barrage ranging for half an hour. One party of the enemy attacked one of our posts at the same time from the north and from the south with rifle fire and hand grenades. It was repulsed and driven off without attaining any results. Another party, estimated to have been twenty-five strong, attacked another point and was repelled. At still another of our posts some of the enemy were heard cutting our wire, but were driven off before they had been able to penetrate it. They left behind rifles, caps and wire cutters. There was the usual scattered artillery fire, some trench mortar activity and bursts of machine-gun fire. The Germans also used a few rifle grenades.

"In the Mulhouse sector from June 28 fire was directed by the German artillery on our front lines. On preceding days the German shells had been directed on our rear positions and communications. This artillery fire was comparatively light. The enemy's machine-gun fire came, as usual, from the vicinity of Aspach le Bas and Durnhaupt le Maut. The hostile planes that came over our lines were attacked even more vigorously than usual by our anti-aircraft guns.

"The German plane reported destroyed in American official communique July 1 was brought down at 6:30 o'clock on the evening of June 30 by Lieut. Pittman. Its destruction has been confirmed.

ITALIAN.

ROME, July 2. — Italian forces this morning launched an attack against the Austrian positions in the region of the Grappa, on the mountain front, and captured important positions, the War Office announces. The Italians took 569 prisoners, including nineteen officers, and captured many machine guns.

The Austrians yesterday delivered fresh attacks against Italian positions on the Asiago plateau, says today's War Office report. The enemy efforts were smashed by the Italian fire, which caused the enemy heavy losses.

In counter-attacks to clear advance points temporarily penetrated the Italian troops were completely successful, capturing 127 prisoners, four trench cannon and several machine guns.

The text of the statement says:

"On the Asiago plateau new attacks which were attempted were crushed under our fire and heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy. Small parties which had hung on to some points on the front of the advanced line were driven back. In a brilliant counter-attack they completely reoccupied these positions, capturing 127 prisoners, a few machine guns and four small trench cannons.

"In the northwestern region of the Grappa operations begun this morning at dawn assured to us possession of important positions. We captured 569 prisoners, including nineteen officers and many machine guns.

"South of the Asiago British parties captured prisoners and a machine gun.

"On the 29th and 30th of June, on Monte di Valbella, Col del Rosso and Col le Chelo, we captured four guns, fifteen trench mortars, fifty-seven machine guns, several thousand rifles and a large quantity of material."

VIENNA, July 2 (via London.)—"Artillery action, which had been lively on the whole Italian front," says a statement issued today by the Austrian War Office, "increased this morning to a degree of considerable violence between the Brenta and Piave rivers and on the lower Piave. Throughout the day there were no infantry operations on a large scale."

GERMAN.

BERLIN (via London) July 2.—Allied attacks west of Chateau Thierry have been repulsed by the Germans, according to the official statement issued today. Attacks against the German lines at other points, the statement adds, also have failed.

The statement reads:

"At many points along the front strong surprise firing attacks were made preliminary to enterprises launched by the enemy, which ended in their repulse.

"West of the Oise and south of the Aisne there was lively reconnoitering activity. Strong partial attacks by the enemy south of the Ourcq and west of Chateau Thierry were frustrated in our fighting zone."

HORDES OF CHINESE IN THE RED CROSS.

A PACIFIC PORT, July 2.—One hundred thousand Chinese residents of Shanghai have joined the American Red Cross as associate members, according to Thomas Sammons, American Consul-General at Shanghai, who arrived here today on his way to Washington.

The American colony of Shanghai, numbering 4000, sold $150,000 worth of Liberty Bonds, Mr. Sammons asserted.

three sides, and, though hotly assailed by Austrian artillery planted amid the ruins of Gallic and in Ronchi Vaale and on Posa plain. About 7 a.m. a grand bayonet charge was ordered and our infantry in a wild uprush swept the summit, pursuing the fleeing foe down the opposite side till the remnant disappeared within the dense plantation. Three vehement but vain endeavors were made by the enemy during the night to recover their lost footing. Photographs taken by the Italian command showed the crest and mountain side densely sown with bodies of the dead and wounded beyond any previous experience in this zone.

ITALIANS WIDEN FRONT.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Monday, July 1.—The local actions resulting in the reconquest of Monte di Val Bella, Col dei Rosso and Col di Chelo, had for their objects the widening of the Italian front west of the Brenta and the driving of the enemy from the positions he captured last Christmas, lost to the Italians in January and regained on June 15.

The Italian losses were slight compared to those sustained by the Austrians. This was due almost entirely to the violence and accuracy of the Italian and Allied artillery fire. Under cover of this fire the infantry was able to take the enemy positions without much opposition and to dig in at once. The Austrian artillery return fire has been severe, some shells reaching the plains behind the lines and destroying houses centuries old. Trees 150 years old on Monte Mela have been torn up.

The attack on Col del Rosso began Sunday morning shortly before noon. The Italians took the heights from the Third Edelweiss Division which formerly fought under Emperor Charles. The division suffered severely. Italian airplanes showered them with bombs while the Bersaglieri exacted a heavy toll in hand-to-hand fighting. Many of the Bersaglieri wore their red fatigue caps during the battle.

U.S. MEN HALT GERMAN ATTACK

captured a quantity of machine guns and other equipment.

In the Vaux region the Americans took the Germans completely by surprise. Most of the prisoners were taken out of cellars and dugouts.

How many Germans were killed, of course, is unknown, but from the numbers of dead in plain view at various places the total must have been considerable.

HUNS SEEK COVER.

While the artillery preparation was going on, many American airplanes flew high overhead. Some were protecting the observation balloons, while others were combing the skies to keep off enemy machines.

Early this morning the American pilots again appeared for similar duty and were soon found contesting with the enemy for supremacy in the air. A number of the aerial battles were observed, but reports on the results are not yet available.

It was exactly 4 o'clock last evening when the Americans went over the top under the protection of a hail of machine-gun bullets from our machine-gun barrages. The infantry action was preceded by a short but terrific artillery preparation.

When the Germans saw that a formidable attack was developing many of those in outposts yelled and ran toward the rear to nests, from which a hot fire began pouring.

The Americans paused for a moment while the automatic rifles and machine guns with the advancing troops fought a duel in front of Vaux, briefly but effectively, with the enemy.

Then the Americans, whose number was considerable, went on, most of them running in their eagerness to get at close quarters with the Germans. At the same time the Boche began hurling gas shells to the rear of the American lines.

OVERCOME ALL RESISTANCE.

Within a brief time the Americans had wrested from the enemy the Bois de la Roche and the woods adjoining it. Then came word that the Americans were in Vaux, and finally, after sharp fighting there in the streets and houses, they overcame all resistance and swept on beyond the village.

The Americans reached every one of their objectives and by this operation they have eliminated a salient and have straightened out their line. Over an area of several miles the American now have the enemy under their guns.

Daylight this morning saw the Americans digging in almost undisturbed far beyond the old German defense line. To the rear batches of prisoners and piles of material are going.

The number of prisoners has steadily mounted until it has reached 275. The guns and material have not yet been tabulated.

The fighting qualities of the Americans were certified to by virtually all the prisoners taken. They said the Americans fought like wild men, sweeping everything before them as they plunged over the ground.

So fierce was the attack that many Germans who were in the zone assaulted made their escape by running when the fight got too hot for them and they saw it was impossible either to slow down or to halt the American plunge.

SWEEP ENEMY'S LINES.

The attack by the Americans on the Vaux positions was so terrific that they swept right through the enemy lines, and had their object been to continue the advance, they could have done so with the greatest ease, as virtually everything before them had been cleared. So great was the enthusiasm of the men, the officers in some cases had to look sharp to keep them from going beyond the set objectives.

It is not improbable that the Germans are planning another counter-attack for the coming dark hours, but preparations have been made to meet them.

A vast quantity of material, considering the size of the operation, is being taken to the rear, but probably will not be tabulated for several days.

In the fighting west of Vaux the Americans stormed several enemy nests and killed or captured the occupants; then turned the guns the other way, using them effectively against the enemy rear areas.

SOME SHELTER.

The Americans penetrated the enemy's lines to a depth of about a kilometer and a half on a front of four kilometers. All day the front-line troops have been subjected to a heavy shell fire. They had some shelter in one patch of woods which they occupied, but those who did not enter the wood had only the protection which they had provided for themselves with their intrenching tools or by taking cover in shell holes.

From one crater slightly in advance of the line, but on it, from a technical point of view, American soldiers this afternoon let their comrades know where they were when one of their party leaned over the lip of the crater and waved his helmet.

A MILLION MEN NOW IN FRANCE.

with the utmost of America's available man power to assist the desperately resisting French and British armies is sharply reflected in the movement of troops during the last three months.

The March sailings of 83,811 were increased in April to 117,212. May saw another 244,345 men embark and last month 276,372 were sent away, making a total for the three months of 637,929.

This, Secretary Baker said later, put the troop movement six months ahead of the original programme.

Substantially thirty divisions are now in France ready to meet whatever move the German staff has in preparation. Some of these divisions already have been formed into the first field army under Maj.-Gen. Liggett, others are holding trench sectors at important points along the battle line, and still others have been broken up and brigaded with the French and British troops. And so when the German thrust comes, the Americans will be called upon to play no small part in meeting it.

SUPPLIES ADEQUATE.

Secretary Baker wrote the President that the supplies and equipment in France for the million men who have gone are shown by latest reports to be adequate and added that "the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply."

How long the present rate of transportation will be maintained depends upon developments in France and the length of time the surplus ship tonnage furnished by Great Britain can be employed.

Secretary Baker said tonight that he disapproved of speculation as to the future records in troop movements, saying he did not desire to have "past performances made the basis of speculations for the future."

As reserves for the million and more men now in France, more than another million are now in training in the United States. It has been officially announced that 1,000,000 American soldiers will be under arms by the end of this month, while information recently furnished to Congress by Brig.-Gen. R. E. Wood, acting quartermaster, disclosed that his department is planning to clothe 4,000,000 men next January 1.

HEAVY DRAFTS NEXT YEAR.

Gen. Crowder recently told the Senate Military Committee that Class 1 registrants will be exhausted by the first of the year and he added the significant statement that "everybody expected heavy calls to be made during the first six months of next year."

In discussing the heavy movement of troops in the last three months, Mr. Baker said it was worthy of mention "that the month in which German submarines were operating off our coasts was the month in which we made the record number of shipments."

In this connection it was recalled that not a single American transport carrying troops to Europe had been sunk, the only two destroyed having been attacked when returning home without the protection of American destroyers and other naval craft. Two British vessels carrying American soldiers have been torpedoed and a third was sunk last month when returning to this country without convoy.

Secretary Baker's letter reveals for the first time the number of marines sent to France. They form only about half a division, but they have been giving a splendid account of themselves since they helped to stem the German thrust for Paris and reports today from France showed that they again had battered through the German trenches and then resisted furious counter-assaults.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

The President's statement, with the letter from Secretary Baker and his reply, follows:

"I have today received the following letter from the Secretary of War which seems to me to contain information which will be so satisfactory to the country that its publication will be welcomed and will give additional zest to our national celebration of the Fourth of July:

"'WAR DEPARTMENT,
"'Washington, July 1, 1918.

"'My Dear Mr. President:

"'More than 1,000,000 American soldiers have sailed from the ports in this country to participate in the war in France. In reporting this fact to you, I feel that you will be interested in a few data showing the progress of our overseas military effort.

"'The first ship carrying military personnel sailed May 8, 1917, having on board Base Hospital No. 1 and members of the Base Nurses' Corps.

"'Gen. Pershing and his staff sailed on May 20, 1917. The embarkations in the months from May, 1917, to and including June, 1918, are as follows:

"'1917—May 1718; June 12,... July 12,983; August 18,323; September 32,523; October 38,259; November 23,016; December 48,...

"'1918—January 46,176; February 48,027; March 83,811; ... 117,212; May 244,345; June 276,...

"'Aggregating 1,019,115.

"'The total number of troops returned from abroad, lost at sea ... casualty is 3165, and of these ... reason of the superbly effective protection which the navy has given our transport system, only ... were lost at sea.

"'The supplies and equipment in France for all troops sent are, by the latest reports, adequate and the output of our war industries in this country is showing marked improvement in practically all lines of necessary equipment and supply.

"'Respectfully yours,
"'NEWTON D. BAKER.

"To which I replied:

"'THE WHITE HOUSE,
"'Washington, July 2, 1918.

"'My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"'Your letter of July 1 contains very significant piece of news and equally significant report of the forwarding of troops during the past year to the other side of the water. It is a record which I think will cause universal satisfaction, because the heart of the country is unconditionally in this war and the people of the United States rejoice to have their forces put faster and faster into the great struggle which is destined to redeem the world.

"'Cordially and sincerely yours,
"'WOODROW WILSON.

"'Hon. Newton D. Baker,
"'Secretary of War.'"

MUST HAVE MEN EVEN IF FARMS NEGLECTED

LONDON, July 2 (via Ottawa).—Walter F. Roch, member of Parliament for Pembrokeshire, in the last night the adjournment of the House of Commons, drew attention to the serious effect of combing for the army the agricultural borers at the harvest. He said he had been inundated with letters from farmers bewailing the probable disastrous effects of the government's action.

Rowland E. Prothero, president of the Board of Agriculture, sympathized with the complaints, but emphasized the overmastering need for men for the army. Man power was short all around, he said, and essential industries must yield proportion man power for the army. Men taken now would be fitted at the end of September, which possibly would be the critical moment. The government recognized the need of men as overpowering every consideration, even food.

CONFIDENCE AND SUPERIORITY.

On Sunday, last, 14,650 inches of paid advertising were inserted in the Los Angeles newspapers. The Times printed 2787 inches more than the Examiner and 5411 inches more than the Tribune. It had more advertising than both of them put together. It also printed 916 inches more "want ads" than the two newspapers combined, again demonstrating the confidence in and superiority of The Times as the best advertising medium for getting results.

The following is the significant statement of the volume of advertising printed in the Los Angeles newspapers on Sunday, June 29, 1918:

TOTAL ADVERTISING PRINTED

The Times	8,616 inches
Second newspaper	4,829 "
Third newspaper	3,205 "

LONDON, July 2 (via Ottawa).—Walter F. Roch, member of Parliament for Pembrokeshire, in moving last night the adjournment of the House of Commons, drew attention to the serious effect of combing out for the army the agricultural laborers at the harvest. He said he had been inundated with letters from farmers bewailing the probable disastrous effects of the government's action.

Rowland E. Prothero, president of the Board of Agriculture, sympathized with the complaint, but emphasized the overmastering need for men for the army. Man power was short all around, he said, but essential industries must yield a proportion man power for the army. Men taken now would be fighting at the end of September, which possibly would be the critical moment. The government recognized the need of men as overpowering every consideration, even food.

SIOUX CITY FIRE VICTIMS 38.

SIOUX CITY, July 2.—A final count of the number of persons killed when the Ruff Building collapsed Saturday gives the number of dead as thirty-nine. It is thought that all the bodies of the victims have been recovered. The only unidentified body is that of a woman.

Vacation Necessities For Men!

The enumeration of all the articles that come under the "vacation necessities" in a stock of this magnitude is quite difficult, but below are some of the most important—

Palm Beach Suits; two-piece Blue Serge Suits; sport coats; bathing suits; beach robes; white shoes; straw hats; khaki trousers; white trousers; flannel shirts; khaki shirts; khaki hats; auto dusters; mountain boots; tennis slippers.

Public Ownership.

URGE CONTROL OF TELEGRAPH.

Cabinet Members Say Seizure is War Necessity.

Power to Operate Lines Asked for President.

Measure Appears Favored by House and Senate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Plans for enacting legislation before the summer recess authorizing President Wilson to take over telegraph, telephone, cable and radio systems, went forward in Congress today, while three members of the Cabinet emphasized their approval before the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Leaders in both houses expressed the opinion that the legislation could be passed without delay, though some opposition was to be expected. The House committee after hearing Secretaries Baker and Daniels and Postmaster-General Burleson, arranged to meet tomorrow to prepare a report on the resolution of Representative Aswell of Louisiana, which has been indorsed by President Wilson. The only fight expected is over the question of a time limit. A limit was suggested in the committee today and was opposed by all three of the witnesses.

Secretary Daniels and Postmaster-General Burleson advocated permanent government ownership. Mr. Baker was not prepared to go that far, but he joined his colleagues in urging government control during the war as a military necessity.

STRIKE THREATENED.

Mr. Burleson, long an advocate of government operation of communications, said the threatened strike of Western Union operators was one reason for action at this time.

What promised to be a hitch in the programme for expediting the legislation developed in the House during the day, but later was cleared up. Representative Gordon of Ohio moved that the Aswell resolution be taken from the Commerce Committee and referred to the Military Committee, since it was proposed as a military necessity. The motion was carried without opposition, but upon hearing a statement by Chairman Sims of the Commerce Committee, the House reversed itself.

The Military Committee considered a resolution by Representative Igoe of New York similar to that of Representative Aswell, but providing specifically for the operation of the communicating systems as far as possible under the plan applied to railroads.

STRIKE NOT CONSIDERED.

Both Mr. Baker and Mr. Daniels denied that the call for a strike of Western Union operators on July 8 had any connection with their action in indorsing the legislation which has been approved by the President.

Secretary Baker, taking the stand first, said it did not happen at the minute to be a military necessity to take over telephones and telegraphs, but it might be "the next minute." He declared it essential as a war measure to give the President full power to take over control of the wires if necessary. Members of the committee asked about the effect of government operation. Mr. Baker said he could not say with certainty whether the government could completely suppress improper communications, but it certainly could suppress such communication better than under present laws. At the same time, he said, there is no supervision or control of domestic messages by telegraph so far as he knew.

He revealed that some time ago a telegraph company using railroad wires became involved in a dispute regarding a contract and that he threatened to take possession of the lines, using "doubtful powers of the War Department" to insure service.

NATION'S BUSINESS.

"The president should have the power to take over the lines," he continued. "Most of the traffic is government business and any interruption will injure the government. The telephone and telegraph service are inseparable in service and both systems should be taken over."

Replying to a question whether the taking over of trunk wires would require similar action over independent small companies, Mr. Baker said such action "was not necessarily involved."

Legislation in addition to the Aswell resolution would be necessary, as in the case of the railroads, he said, to deal with contracts and compensation.

"I cannot imagine any more serious interruption to our war preparations than suspension of telegraph service," said Mr. Baker. "Interruption, even for a brief time, would seriously interfere with all of our war activities."

"Has any reference to a strike of telegraphers been made in connection with this resolution?" asked Representative Esch of Wisconsin.

"I have no knowledge of that," was the reply.

TO PREVENT STRIKE.

"What effect," Mr. Esch continued, "would the adoption of this resolution by Congress, if it should be adopted before July 8, have on the strike? It would make all telegraphers government employees, would it not, and would it prevent a strike?"

"It would make all telegraphers government employees, but I have no knowledge whether it would prevent a strike," Mr. Baker replied.

Mr. Baker said the government has no force "in the slightest degree adequate" for the operating of the lines in the event the lines were tied up by a strike.

The American army in France is operating 4000 miles of telegraph and telephone lines, Mr. Baker told the committee. These lines were acquired from the French government, he said, and are under entire control of American troops.

WAR PRECAUTION.

Secretary Daniels told the committee the chief naval reason for taking over the wires at this time is the presence of enemy submarines off the American coast, and that their operation by the government would be a step toward the government's taking every precautionary step to guard against enemy attacks.

Secretary Daniels said that every day messages of great importance to the government are being sent over private lines and the fact that any company could perpetrate a fraud or send a telegram by mail would be sufficient reason to empower the President to take over a line.

Though the great bulk of telegraph and telephone employees now are loyal, he said, "our experience is that those who take the oath to support the government as government officials or employees feel more bound than they are as employees of a private corporation. I would feel safer if government employees handled all our messages."

MILITARY NEEDS.

Mr. Daniels said that when he wrote his letter to Chairman Sims advocating the resolution he did not know there was possibility of a strike on the Western Union. "My conclusion," he added, "was reached on the military needs."

Mr. Daniels declared it would be much easier to operate the telegraph and telephone lines than it is to operate the mails. Emphasizing his desire to have the war and navy ultimatums handled by government officials, he said the employees of private companies would be taken over as government employees and that even if there was a loss to the government in point of money, "it's worth paying for."

Failure of the telephone systems under the rush of business early in the war, Secretary Daniels said, caused the Navy Department to lease its own plants for navy yards.

HIGH-PRICED FLOUR.

Sack of It Brings $86,675 After Having Been Sold Twenty Times for $50,825.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—For one sack of flour—$86,675.

That is the price paid by the Mystic Shriners of Oklahoma for the "Shriners' Red Cross sack of flour," according to Potentate John D. McGilvray of Islam Temple, San Francisco, who has just returned here. The sack has been sold twenty-one times and the total sales to date are $137,500, which has been turned over to the Red Cross.

The sack of flour was started in Islam Temple here by Historian Clarence F. Pratt. It has traveled over 20,000 miles, having been sold in Honolulu, Iowa, Ohio, Alabama, New Jersey, North Caroline, Wyoming and Montana. After each sale the sack is returned to Islam Temple, then forwarded to another temple. The Shriners expect to raise $1,000,000 with the sack for the Red Cross.

When "Sunny Jim" McCandless, Imperial High Priest and Prophet of the Shriners, sold the sack in Honolulu for $1000, he announced that as soon as another other temple passed this high mark for Aloha Temple, the sack should be returned to Honolulu and the Shriners there would set a new mark. The $86,675 mark will mean a resale in Honolulu to exceed it.

The Aloha Shriners, when the sack was in Honolulu, wove a Lauhala covering around the sack. At Helena, Mont., the Algeria Temple sold the sack for $5000 and made a cowhide covering for the sack. At Butte, Bagdad Temple, after selling the flour for $7250, placed a copper band or fez outside Algeria's cowhide. The Oklahoma Shriners built a miniature oil derrick out of silver and placed it around the other coverings. They then challenged Aloha Temple, and all other temples in the United States, to exceed the $86,675 sale.

PARIS TO GIVE WILSON ORIGINAL NEW DEGREE

PARIS, July 2.—President Wilson will be the first person to be honored with the new Degree of Doctor Honoris Causa from the University of Paris, says Le Journal. A governmental decree authorizing French universities to bestow the title of Doctor Honoris Causa has just been published in the Journal Officiel.

It was hoped, adds the newspaper, that the degree could be conferred on the Fourth of July. It was explained by Lucien Poincare, director of public instruction, however, that the time was too short to admit of this. A suitable occasion would be found later, he announced.

NORTHWEST GRAIN TO GO EAST VIA CANAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HELENA, July 2.—Grain raised in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Western Montana to the summit of the Rockies will be routed to the Atlantic seaboard this year via the Pacific Coast and Panama Canal, was the assurance Food Administrator Herbert Hoover gave State Railroad Commissioner J. H. Hall and W. M. Burlingame, who presented the matter to him of routing Montana grain to the Pacific Coast. Lack of tonnage at this time prevents handling the balance of the Montana crop this year.

Omaha Firemen Hurt as Roof Falls.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

OMAHA, July 2.—Fire of unknown origin which was discovered at the Elks' Lodge Building early today did $150,000 damage. Three firemen were hurt and narrowly escaped death when they fell one floor with the collapse of the roof. Four others were injured in fighting the blaze.

LEADING WORLD BUILDING SHIPS.

Commercial Fleet Increasing at Rapid Rate.

Sailors' Union not to Strike During Period of War.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Ship production in the United States in June amounted to 280,400 dead weight tons, making the total 1918 production to date 1,084,670 tons.

The June production, which is at the rate of 3,364,800 tons a year, is a new record for the United States and is the greatest output of ocean-going tonnage ever completed in any one month by any nation. It comes within 15,000 tons of the world's record for shipbuilding made by the British shipyards in May, but which included all classes of vessels.

MANY STEEL SHIPS.

Of the month's output, steel ships totaled 262,900 tons and wooden ships 17,500 tons. The number of vessels was not announced, as it was discovered that several had been put into service so quickly after delivery that inspectors had not made reports on them for the Shipping Board's statistical department. Tonnage figures were available from the division of operations.

An amazing growth in output was disclosed by detailed figures for the four weeks in June. In the first week six ships of 24,430 deadweight tons were delivered; the second week ten more of 64,732 tons were added, and in the third week the average for the month was made one a day by the completion of five ships totaling 61,260 tons. It was in the last week of the month, however, that the shipbuilders really hit their stride and gave evidence of the tremendous output which may be expected from now on. Deliveries in the last week totaled 129,978 tons, which is at the rate of nearly 7,000,000 tons a year.

The same growth also has been shown from month to month. The output in June was three times that in January, which amounted to 88,507 tons.

STRIKES PROHIBITED.

Strikes are prohibited for the period of the war under an agreement reached between the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, the American Steamship Association and the Shipping Board, an announcement said.

Overtime payment for all work done off watch at sea, except that necessary for the immediate safety of the vessels, was granted the union. The outing is one of the most important of numerous far-reaching concessions granted by the board, doing away with the ancient privilege accorded mates of calling men during their rest hours to any task they might find or devise, without extra pay. Such work now will be compensated at the rate of time and a half.

SHIP MEN STRIKE.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 2.—Union shipyard workers, said by their leaders to number approximately 2000, laid down their tools at the Coughlin shipyards today, giving as their reason their unwillingness to operate machines driven by power supplied by the Western Canada Power Company, whose union electrical workers are on strike. It was estimated only 25 per cent. of the shipyard force remained after the walk-out.

TROUBLE OVER THE LIMBOURG RAILWAY.

DUTCH TO EXPLAIN CARRYING THINGS GERMANS MAY USE IN WAR.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 2.—A misunderstanding between the Dutch and Allied governments concerning the kind of goods transported by the Germans to Belgium over the Limbourg railway is reported by the correspondent of the Daily Mail at The Hague. The trouble is ascribed to conflicting interpretations of the recent agreement between the Allied governments and Holland.

Representatives of four Allied governments, it is added, visited Dr. Loudon, the Dutch Foreign Minister, and pointed out that their governments never intended to recognize the transit by the Germans of such things as timber, barbed wire, hay and straw, which are likely to be used for military purposes. Foreign Minister Loudon's reply is not reported by the Daily Mail's correspondent.

EIGHT FOREST FIRES RAGE IN WASHINGTON.

SEATTLE, July 2.—Fires were sweeping 400 acres of logged-off land between Kenmore and Juanita, near here, today, according to reports received by D. C. Griswold, county fire warden. Eighty acres of timber on adjoining State school land were threatened.

Reports reached A. E. Pape, State forester at Olympia, last night, that eight forest fires were burning on school and national forest lands in the State.

MAX THELEN IS GIVEN LARGER WORK IN WAR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Max Thelen of California, who is in charge of contracts in the office of the Secretary of War and directly responsible to Assistant Secretary Stettinius, is to have more work. His chief, Mr. Stettinius, is soon to leave for France to be the member representing the United States on the permanent supply board to be maintained by the Allies, and which will absolutely control supplies.

It is probable that Mr. Stettinius will spend most of his time on the other side for several months, and during that time the handling of contracts in the War Department will almost entirely fall upon Mr. Thelen.

Teuton Blunders.

GERMANS' CHIEF BUTCHER TEMPORARILY ECLIPSED.

Bullheaded Rush of Superior Numbers Wins Every Victory for Kaiser.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent of The Times.

AMERICAN FRONT, June 11.—Hindenburg, for a long time butcher-in-chief for the Kaiser, has been eclipsed temporarily, at least. The first indications that his sun might be setting came with the more frequent linking of Ludendorff's name with German operations. Then came a reversion to the original plan of Moltke, who always has contended that Paris should be the first objective of the war if it was to be won by Germany, as against Hindenburg's contention that England was the vital point at which Prussia should aim through the channel ports.

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding, nevertheless, Paris was the prize sought in the offensive started on May 27 and various succeeding phases of it. This was an adoption of the discarded Moltke plan and explains why the offensive was launched in the Champagne. The following statement, made by a man versed in military strategy, is not a matter of personal opinion, but based on what was being said in Germany at the time.

PARIS AS OBJECTIVE.

"Immediately after the offensive against Amiens and the French coast, a campaign was begun in the Kaiser's entourage by friends of Moltke, the former Chief of Staff, against Hindenburg's strategy. Moltke's first and foremost objective was Paris, and his desire was always that Germany's military action should be conditioned on this aim. Hindenburg did not agree with this, his view being that Paris was no longer, as in 1870, the heart of the adversary. In his opinion, England had taken the place of Paris. Action must therefore be taken against the coast in order to threaten England from there.

"The assumed possibility, by possession of the channel coast, of impairing the safety of English territory by landing troops, and, in fact, has never receded from that position. In his view, Paris is only a subsidiary object. Moltke's supporters were powerless, owing to the Kaiser's confidence in Hindenburg, but after the failure against the coast they resumed the campaign against Hindenburg. This, however, no difference how vigorously conducted, would have been useless had not the Crown Prince joined their ranks."

BOTH PLANS IMPOTENT.

As far as deciding the war, both plans of Hindenburg and Moltke have been impotent. A favorite theme for four years has been the superiority, in fact, almost omnipotent generalship of the Germans. Comparatively little has been said about their bulls and blunders. It is a matter of record that every so-called victory the Germans have won has been due either to sheer force of numbers and preponderance of material, or to propaganda as unprincipled as everything else that the German does. With things equal, or nearly so, they have invariably been whipped. Most of their strategy has consisted of bull-headed rushes attended by a reckless wastage of their own men. But for soldiers sacrificed to no purpose, Germany probably would have been strong enough to break the Allied lines either on March 21 or May 27.

Personally, I fail to see in the greatly adulated German generals anything except the familiar squarehead traits. With Germany's vast preparation and huge armies a man with nothing but solid ivory under his war bonnet ought to have been able to win the war in the first three months.

LOSING PUNCH.

Since cabling a story to the effect that Germany appeared to have shot her wad and to be losing her punch, information has come to light tending to substantiate the statement. It was pointed out that the rank and file of the Kaiser's armies were getting tired of being sent into indeterminate offensives, while the civilians, already restive, would in time demand an accounting for the sacrifices. The information at hand was secured from German prisoners captured by the Americans, several of whom are officers. Some of their statements are backed up by documents.

They admit that Allied bombing of Cologne and other Rhine towns has had a most demoralizing effect on the people in the districts assailed from the air. Never is the German able to endure any of his own medicine. There is a growing belief among the soldiers, say the captives, that the French cannot be defeated, with the result that the morale of the army is suffering. They had been promised that German arms would score a complete and final triumph not later than July 1, and realize this is as hollow as other hopes which have been held out to them.

AN UNEXPECTED FOE.

However, probably the greatest source of discouragement is the showing of the Americans. Owing to the secretive policy of the German censorship, the soldiers were kept largely in the dark as to the extent of America's participation in the war. Now the facts can no longer be concealed from them, at least, not entirely.

Then, food conditions are bad both in the army and among civilians. Some of the German bread left behind in their sudden flight from the Americans was little more than bran mixed with potato peelings—about such stuff as would be fed to hogs in America. However, the civilians are the worst sufferers, as the army receives the "best that the market affords." Germany found the Ukraine an empty bread basket as far as immediate needs are concerned. Prisoners stated that there had been a reduction of wheat rations from 200 to 160 kilos a week pending the arrival of the new crop from the Ukraine. Undernourishment due to lack of food and food of poor quality is making disease of various kinds increasingly prevalent among civilians and causing an alarming increase in the death rate.

Germany is reaping the misery which she has sown all about her and no hand will be raised to stay her dissolution. God did not will this thing upon her, nor did other peoples. She willed it on herself.

At this writing, June 11, one close to the scene can but feel that he is looking on the last throes of a gigantic effort launched almost four years ago.

At Humanity's Call.

AUSTRIA'S SUBJECT RACES HELP FILL ALLIED RANKS.

BY G. H. PERRIS.
[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, June 30.—After the Poles, it is the turn of the oppressed nationalities of the Austro-Hungarian empire, the Czechs of Bohemia and the Slavs of southern lands, to be represented by an autonomous army fighting beside the Allies in the west. The Italian government had already organized a force of Czecho-Slovaks, consisting of volunteers of the races from prison camps or from America, which is now of the strength of several regiments and today a similar force was formally inducted into the trials and tasks of the great war at a certain place behind the French front.

Thus in strange accents, but to the same purpose, the west cries to the east and to far Siberia. This brave race will certainly be heard.

Two further breaches of the rules of war by the German army are registered. The first consists of the persistent employment of prisoners of war within the forbidden distance of twenty miles from the battle line. Two French soldiers, who escaped, report having seen French and British prisoners from Amifontaine camp fifteen miles from Rheims, working on the railway near Pontavert, eleven miles from Rheims, transferred on June 15 from Amifontaine to Montigny Sur Seile, they saw several prisoner camps on the road. They themselves had to work at making a munitions depot in this region. On June 21 they made part of a gang set to remove the furniture from a private house at Jonchery, which is within five miles of the Allied lines. This last is only one of a number instances of organized pillage.

Between the Aisne and the Marne the enemy seems to have systematically robbed the conquered territories. At Chateau Thierry houses and shops have been extensively pillaged. Prisoners belonging to the German Thirty-sixth Division testify to having seen the staff of the Nineteenth Infantry Regiment sacking a wine cellar.

Better proof than this has been obtained in the form of letters from an orderly officer, Lieut. Mattern of the first battalion, Forty-second Regiment, begging another officer, Lieut. Dombrowski, who seems to be the local head of the pillage service, to obtain for his staff a number of articles, which, strangely, included a number of ladies' chemises, camisoles, blouses and belts, as well as "twenty bottles of champagne."

Explosion.

TERRIFIC BLAST WRECKS PLANT; MANY ARE KILLED.

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) July 22.—Many persons were reported to have been killed or injured in two terrific explosions tonight at the huge plant of the Semet-Solvay Company, located at Split Rock, a suburb.

The force of the explosions rocked this city. Plate-glass windows in the business section were broken and residences swayed perceptibly, causing their occupants to rush into the streets.

Every ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene, and squads of police were hurried to the plant to preserve order.

The output of the Semet-Solvay Company is largely t.n.t., a powerful explosive used in the manufacture of munitions.

More than 3000 men are employed at the plant, virtually all of whom reside in this city.

Police headquarters reported at 11:30 o'clock that an incomplete investigation showed sixteen persons had been killed and scores injured, many probably fatally.

Fire which preceded the explosion had levelled three of the buildings, and was still raging fiercely.

The police believe the list of dead and injured will mount above 100 when final details are available.

Unequipped with fire apparatus, volunteer firemen were unable to make headway against the spreading flames.

Columns of flames shot 300 feet in height. The heat was so intense that it cracked glass hundreds of yards away, and a thick, noxious smoke combined to handicap the fire fighters and rescuers.

The first explosion in one of the t.n.t. vats ripped building No. 1 apart, buried guards under the debris and scattered the flames to adjoining buildings.

Two workmen, caught in between two burning buildings, were hurled through a wall by the force of the explosion. Still alive, they were picked up without a shred of clothing on their bodies. Both probably will die.

HOLDEN NAMES RAILWAY HEADS

Sproule District Manager of Lines in West.

Federal Chiefs Appointed by Regional Leader.

Carriers' Incomes Decrease for Five Months.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 2.—Important appointments of Federal managers of railroads were made by Regional Director Hale Holden this afternoon, as follows:

Union Pacific—E. E. Calvin, Omaha.

Southern Pacific—W. R. Scott, San Francisco.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific—J. E. Gorman, Chicago. (Mr. Gorman is Federal manager of other parts of the road outside Mr. Holden's jurisdiction.)

El Paso and Southwestern—G. F. Hawkes, El Paso, general manager.

It is said to be the plan to appoint Federal managers for the larger roads and general managers for the smaller ones.

SPROULE COAST CHIEF.

William Sproule was today announced as having been appointed Federal district manager of railroads west of Ogden and Salt Lake City, south of Ashland, Or., and including Albuquerque and El Paso.

The order was effective today. It was reported that President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe had resigned and that a Federal director had been appointed. Hale Holden, regional director, said he would have an announcement to make on the subject later.

Mr. Sproule's headquarters will be at San Francisco.

INCOMES DECREASE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Reduction of $108,196,836 in the operating income of 123 of the largest railroads during the first five months under government control, compared with the same period a year ago, was announced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In May the roads were beginning to recover from the paralyzing effects of blizzards and embargoes, and the operating income rose to a point nearer last year's figures. For the five months the total was $186,987,144, compared with $295,183,970 during that period last year, and for May it was $64,276,805, against $76,290,620 last May.

In spite of the reduced operating income, revenues of the roads actually were larger for the five months this year than last. They were $1,390,282,620, compared with $1,274,970,498, giving margin which was more than eaten up by increased expenses.

Strike Pending Arbitration.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 2.—In the face of arbitration proceedings held during the past week, a report of which was expected to be handed down within the next few days by the Board of Conciliation, street railway and electrical workers went on strike here at midnight, last night. Union officials estimated the electrical workers affected numbered 1200. No estimate was given of the street railway workers out.

To Prevent Faking Allied Uniforms.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A House bill designed to protect uniforms of the Allies, penalizing their use by imposters, was passed yesterday by the Senate and sent to the President.

THE MORRIS PLAN

A Good Credit Standing Is a Valuable Asset Don't Lose Yours!

No matter how hard it is to keep, it is worth any effort to do so. If you are honest and have a steady salary or income, and really want to get out of debt, we will make you a loan to pay off your bills. Six per cent. interest, deducted in advance, and weekly payments of $1 for every $50 you borrow, so you will be out of debt in a year—this is the "Morris Plan."

Then you are free from worry and your payments are all made in one place. Come in and ask about it. Information free.

Crowder to Issue Order Today to that Effect.

Petition by Film Association Convinces Him.

War-Helping Service of Industry Clearly Shown.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Provost-Marshal-General Crowder will issue an order tomorrow including motion-picture actors in the essential employment class. They will be placed upon the same footing as the "necessary performers in legitimate concerts, operas or theatrical performances," who are now specifically exempted by the War Department.

Those who will be affected by the order are producing directors, actors, camera men, scenario writers, film editors, film cutters and heads of the laboratory, scenic and property departments.

This order is the result of an appeal of the Motion Picture War Service Association of Los Angeles, presented to Gen. Crowder yesterday by Grant Carpenter, its assistant secretary, who came to Washington largely to establish the motion-picture industry in the mind of Gen. Crowder as an essential and protect the skilled persons necessary to its continued success.

SECRECY ON OPENING OF A COMMERCE CHAMBER IN NATION'S CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, July 3. — The American-Russian Chamber of Commerce of New York today opened offices in the Department of Commerce Building, in accord with the programme of business interests and government officials in preparation for the extension of economic aid to Russia. The chamber is a commercial organization devoted to furthering closer business relations between the two nations.

Discussion of the government's intention is being discouraged in all quarters and no official today would comment on the situation or the progress of the American plans.

GIVE HUN ALLIANCE NEAR-FINAL BURIAL.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Without a word of discussion or a record vote, the Senate today adopted the resolution of Senator King of Utah annulling the Federal charter of the National German-American Alliance. The resolution now goes to the House.

The resolution, on which spirited hearings were held recently by the Senate Judiciary Committee, went through on a viva voce vote with few Senators in the chamber.

National officers of the alliance recently announced that it had disbanded, at least for the war, and many affiliated branches have been dissolved. Its funds were subscribed to the Red Cross.

Testimony before the Senate committee related to the alleged efforts of the alliance's members to spread German propaganda and to political activity.

CUBAN HOUSE VOTES FOR ESPIONAGE BILL.

HAVANA, July 3.—The espionage bill, one of the war measures strongly urged upon Congress by the President, was adopted by the House this afternoon without a dissenting vote. The new bill now goes to the Senate.

An amendment was adopted which, while leaving all other decrees issued by the President in force, annuls that of March 17, 1917, which suspended Constitutional guarantees.

NONPARTISAN SENTENCED.

GERMANS' SOLUTION OF POLISH QUESTION.

PRINCIPLE OF "MOST FAVORED NATION" PUSHED TO THE LIMIT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, July 2.—The principal features of the German solution of the Polish question, which are approved by all the Central Powers, are published in the Abend Zeitung of Augsburg, Germany, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich. The conditions are:

"The frontiers will be fixed by the German high command, according to military necessities.

"The Polish army will be restricted to 90,000.

"For fifty years Poland must make most favorable economic concessions to the Central Powers, on the principle of the most favored nation.

"Publication of German, Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish papers must be allowed.

"In any locality where there are ten German children a German school will be opened."

Provision, the newspaper adds, also is made for an elective monarchy. The German conditions will be incorporated in the constitution, which cannot be modified without the approval of the Central Powers.

Tigers Capture the First Game in Series with Angels.

At Washington Park.

ESSICK GETS FIRST BLOOD.

Angels Appear to be Dazzled by Dell's Speed.

Pertica has an Evening that is Way "Off."

Daley and Borton Feature with Willow.

BY EDWIN F. O'MALLEY.

Bill Essick drew first blood, 3 to in the eight-game series that is be played this week between the Angels and Vernon. The game at Washington Park last evening proved to be a big breeze for Bill, who sent Wheezer Dell to the mound. Wheezer was at his best and had speed to loan. In fact had he elected to borrow money on his speed he could easily have gotten it at a usurious rate of interest on it. He was in time during the nine innings and he falter except in the fourth inning, when he was touched up for three hits, netting two runs.

Pertica did the projecting for the Angels. From the very first he gave palpable indications of having an off evening. He lacked control and what he did get 'em over the plate the ball had nothing on it and was pounded to all corners of the lot. He was also as wild as a battle cyclone in his fielding, committing two errors.

Vernon began tallying in the second inning and apart from the sixth didn't stop the run getting until the ninth. Every one of the Tigers, save Dell, fattened his batting average. The sun was very wan and sick about the eighth inning. The last inning was played in semi-darkness. It was here that Wheezer slowed up considerably, allowing the Seraphs to get his courtesy.

Daley and Borton featured at the bat, each securing a three-bagger. The Angels appeared to be dazzled by Dell's speed, seven of them whiffing. Most of the hit balls of the Tigers were little pop up flies. It was simply an off evening for Pertica and his team mates and that is all there was to the story. The score:

BILL FISHER WILL LEAD SHIP BUILDERS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 2.—Bill Fisher, manager of the Portland Beavercos, has long since passed the three-times-seven milepost, and is now well up in the thirties, but the fact did not deter him from stepping out today and wishing himself on to an eight-hour-a-day job at the Grant-Smith-Porter shipyards, where it is said that he will manage the company's baseball team at the conclusion of the Pacific Coast International season next Sunday. Fisher took along a pair of overalls and hied himself down to the Grant-Smith-Porter yards and immediately buckled down to hard labor.

Fisher told the shipyard magnates that he could do anything from scraping barnacles off ship bottoms to steering a ship left handed, and they put the buckaroo chief to work.

NERVES UNSTRUNG BY RUSH OF WORK

In these war times we all want to keep ourselves at the highest point of efficiency to be able to do our share in the many demands for service that are made on all. Unless you keep the mental fatigue and build up your nerves you will be fortunate if you escape nervous breakdown, some form of paralysis or other severe nervous disorder.

The strain of a rush of work at the mill, due to war orders, was getting on my nerves," says Mr. Thomas Wagner of 67 Marshall street, Lowell, Mass., "and I had stomach trouble. My appetite was poor and I could not digest food. I was uneasy all the time. I was restless and tired and tossed about in bed. When I got up I did not feel like working. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I gave them a trial. I soon noticed that they were helping me. I can eat now and have more ambition. My nerves are steadier and I rest well at night. I certainly can recommend these pills after what they have done for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a nerve tonic. They build up the nerves in the only possible way, by enriching the blood with elements the nerves need. The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved useful in so many severe cases that every sufferer is justified in giving them a trial for any form of nervous debility. They contain no opiate or harmful drug.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price fifty cents per box; six boxes for $2.50. Write to Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free book on nervous disorders.

NOW SERVICE CLUB.

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 2.—After an existence of twenty-five years, the Seattle Athletic Club today passed out of existence and will hereafter be known as the Army and Navy Officers' Club. A new board composed of army and navy men will pass on new members. The present handsome quarters of the club will be maintained. The club has lost many of its old members to military service.

GOSSIP OF THE LINKS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE San Gabriel Country Club has launched an innovation in golf tournaments. The Greens Committee has sent out invitations to all members of the clubs in the Southern California Golf Association for a twilight tournament, to begin at 4 p.m. on Monday evening, July 8, entrance fees all and registration for play to be made either at the club or through George Cline in town. The prizes are to be War Savings Stamps and will be for the best gross and net scores in eighteen-hole medal play handicap.

A distinguished English lady golfer, with an array of stylish British titles to her credit, and metropolitan and Eastern States champion in this country, is due to arrive in Los Angeles about July 24. She is Mrs. W. A. Gavin and she is at present touring the country in a series of exhibition matches on behalf of the Red Cross and the French ambulance fund for American soldiers in France.

Not only is Mrs. Gavin distinguished as a golfer, but she was also the first woman aviator to fly across the English Channel, and hunted lions with Paul Rainey in South Africa.

In golf she is renowned as a woman golfer who licked Jerome D. Travers 6 up in a thirty-six-hole match, with a handicap of half a stroke a hole. She is reputed to have a wonderful long drive, usually about 260 yards, and positively nothing rattles her. The only thing that came near to upsetting her nerves was the sight of Scott Chisholm's plaid socks, shirt and tie on the golf links in Denver, Colo., where she has recently been playing her patriotic golf with such marked success. But all the same, she effected the first 570-yard hole in par. She will play in Seattle on July 4, then against Mike Brady in San Francisco on July 11, with a nine-stroke handicap. After that we may look for her here any day, where she will probably be matched against some of our star players for the good cause.

There seems to be only one thing against her — some royal connections or other. I refused to investigate her royal pedigree, since one certainly should not be held accountable for one's relations in America.

The Los Angeles Country Club will have two golf events on July 4—a four-ball foursome against par in the morning, and match play against par in the afternoon. The entrance fee is 50 cents and the prizes Thrift Stamps.

PHONE EMPLOYEES HOLD TENNIS MEET.

A five-week tennis tournament of employees of the Southern California Telephone Company is now in progress. It will last until July 27.

C. J. Clark is president and S. P. Thomas secretary and treasurer of the Southern California Telephone Tennis Club. The following teams are participating in the tourney: Team No. 1, Rickerhouser and Bunton; No. 2, Kelsey and Lake; No. 3, E. F. Clark and Sweet; No. 4, Mills and Carlisle; No. 5, Wilkinson and Weaver; No. 6, C. J. Clark and Thomas.

The games are played on the company's court at the west office. The B. H. Dyas Company trophy will go to the team winning the greatest percentage of sets. There is some talk of picking a team from this fast aggregation and meeting all comers.

TO PLAY RED CROSS GOLF AT BRENTWOOD.

The golf programme for July 4 at Brentwood Country Club, as now arranged by the joint committee of the L.A.A.C. and Brentwood Club, is as follows:

An eighteen-hole medal play handicap will be played in the morning. The prizes will be golf medals furnished by the United States Red Cross, one for the low gross and one for the low net scored.

Special events are planned as follows: Eighteen-hole medal play handicap—War Savings Stamps as prizes, also "Bill Nevin" special prizes, for the members of the L.A.A.C. only. A large entry from L.A.A.C. is expected, and it is expected the members of the Brentwood Country Club will turn out in full force to welcome their new allies. The entry fee is $1. You may pay more if you wish, for the entire receipts go to the Red Cross.

BROWN-FORD BOUT IS DECLARED DRAW.

GOLINDO WINS EASILY, BUT MENDE GETS THE DECISION.

A packed house at Jack Doyle's pavilion last night witnessed one of the best sextet of boxing bouts that was ever given at Vernon. The feature event of the evening was a humdinger affair between Jimmy Ford of San Francisco and Young Brown. The boys fought several weeks before at the same place, with Ford on the long end. This time Brown changed his tactics and never gave Ford a rest during the four rounds. He carried the fight to close quarters all the time and was giving Ford a good lacing as the gong sounded at the end. Referee Donald called the bout a draw.

The semi-windup brought Young Golindo, one of the cleverest boys seen around here in some time, and Kid Mende together. Golindo gave Mende a boxing lesson for three rounds, pumping in lightning-like lefts at will and crossing now and then with his right. In the last round Mende resorted to close boxing and appeared to be the stronger when the session ended. Golindo tore Mende's left ear open with a right in the first and closed his left eye with another right in the third. Mende was in a bad way at the end of the third round. Golindo won easily, but the referee to the surprise of nine out of ten present raised Mende's hand. The very worst Golindo could have gotten was a draw. The decision was a sad mistake.

The other bouts resulted as follows: Kid Layman beat Fred Titus all the way; Elmer Brown put out Joe Pena in the first round; Kid Denby and Battling Frankie battled to a draw; Billy Shade and George Moss fought four comical rounds. Moss had Shade all but out at the end of the last round. It was declared a draw.

Garden Grove Man Sues Osteopath for Slander.

Santa Ana Board Ordered to Reclassify Draft.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, July 2.—A suit for $35,000 damages came to a sudden end in the Superior Court here today when judgment of $250 was stipulated. Maria Marengo of Los Angeles, represented by Attorneys Dannis and Morse, filed suit against J. C. Cordes of Anaheim, alleging carless driving by William Cordes, son of the Anaheim man, resulting in injuries to Louis Marengo which later proved fatal. Attorneys Clyde Bishop and H. V. Weisel for the defense objected to taking evidence today because the complaint did not state sufficient ground for action. Fearing a delay of the trial, plaintiff's attorneys offered to settle for $500, this was cut in half, and the case settled by stipulation.

CHARGES SLANDER.

Suit for $15,000 alleged slander was filed here today. The plaintiff is Charles A. Emerson of Garden Grove, who charges Dr. Frances Marshall, an osteopath of Garden Grove, on three different occasions, to three different people, made statements in which she accused Emerson of an offense which is classed in the public mind as one of the most serious of the felonies. Attorneys Clyde Bishop and H. C. Head represent Emerson.

Reclassification of draft men is under way here and thirteen young men, most of whom were married since June 9, 1917, were called to appear before the exemption board tonight and show cause, if any, why they should not be transferred from class 3 to class 1 and made available for early military service. Those notified to appear were Theodore B. Kelly, Beatrice M. Crawford, Frank A. Snyder, Jesse G. Rose, Santa Ana; Cecil B. Mahr, Fresno; F. C. Mock, El Toro; Floyd S. Hemstreet, Newport Beach; Edward C. Appel, Orange; Joseph H. Ryan, Santa Ana; Frank E. Biggs, Santa Ana; Henry T. Imm, Santa Ana; Edward McWilliams, Santa Ana, and Victor Veney, Los Angeles.

ALLIED SPEAKERS TO BE HEARD AT BEACH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, July 2.—Expecting between 30,000 and 40,000 visitors, this city was perfecting details of a big Fourth of July celebration today. Pacific Park took on a gala appearance this afternoon when flags and bunting were put in place in preparation for the patriotic Allied programme to be held on the morning of the Fourth. Specially-erected booths, suitably decorated, will be occupied by war service organizations in one section of the park.

Representatives of the Allied nations will also speak in the Municipal Auditorium in the evening following a patriotic band concert by the Municipal Band. Among these will be Dr. Hector Alliot of Los Angeles, representing France; Attorney F. M. Andreani of Los Angeles, representing Italy; J. Dallma, formerly of London, represent England, and Dr. George D. Knights of Long Beach, the United States.

In another, speakers representing the main Allied nations will deliver patriotic orations. A patriotic band concert, followed by songs of a like nature will also be a feature of the programme.

SANTA BARBARA OVER STAMP QUOTA $95,448.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 1.—Santa Barbara county has oversubscribed War Savings Stamp quota, $95,448. The allotment was $683,280, while the total subscription reached $778,728. The little colony of Solvang was allotted $8000, subscribed $21,133; Santa Ynez Valley allotted $18,000, subscribed $40,000; Guadalupe allotted $11,000, subscribed $16,715.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, July 2.—Considerable difficulty is being experienced in securing a jury to try for the second time J. F. Fairchild of Lindsay, who is accused of the murder of Oscar Carlson, a fellow member of the Rosedale School Board. The jury called to try the case last month were unable to agree.

Fairchild stabbed Carlson to death after an altercation over the payment of certain school bills. He declared the killing was unintentional and that he drew his pocket knife in self-defense.

HOTTER THAN USUAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, July 2.—June of this year showed the greatest average of maximum temperature since the weather records have been kept here, a period of fourteen years. The average for the thirty-day period was 97 deg., which is about four degrees higher than the average for 1912, the previous high mark. The sudden onset of exceptional heat, coming as it did after a period of unusually cool weather, has had a bad effect on many crops, notably oranges and beans.

SELLS ORANGE GROVE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, July 2.—Dr. M. J. Sweeney, vice-president of the First National Bank here, has sold his fifty-acre Valencia grove in the Williams tract west of this city to Thomas H. Peppers and Howard Whitney of Los Angeles and Wilfred Tilletson of this city for a cash consideration of $100,000. The new owners have taken possession. There are 8000 boxes of Valencias still on the trees that go to the new owners.

Guy Nowlin,

Son of Mr. A. E. Nowlin, No. 225 East First street, Long Beach, member of the crew of the ill-fated naval collier Cyclops and regarded as officially dead by the Navy Department.

RED CROSS FIESTA PLANS AT WHITTIER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, July 2.—All is in readiness here for the biggest carnival ever put across in this community. The entire proceeds of the big fiesta will go to the Red Cross. The city streets radiating from the business center are now gay with national colors and Red Cross flags, and no affair ever attempted by this community has met with such hearty co-operation. There will be an afternoon programme today.

On the Fourth, the Santa Fe Springs community will give a barbecue for all who come. Other communities are working also. La Habra, Rivera, Montebello, Los Nietos, Norwalk and East Whittier are co-operating, and will not only celebrate our national holiday here, but will assist in the big event during the three days.

Chairman J. H. Bawden of the Entertainment Committee has secured the assistance of numerous attractions from the big movie concerns in Los Angeles. The Shriners' Band, Patters and Chanters, and various headliners from the Los Angeles Athletic Club are promised. Thousands of dollars worth of scrip has been sold, redeemable at the various booths and entertainments. A feature of each evening will be a street dance on a large platform erected on West College street, for which the thoroughfare has been temporarily closed. The carnival will be held at Liberty Park, a half-block south of the business center of the city.

USE OF WATER FRONT GRANTED BY COUNCIL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 2.—The City Council yesterday afternoon voted the use of 3000 feet of water front south of what is known as the Chollas Heights Slough to the Emergency Fleet Corporation for shipbuilding purposes.

The resolution of the Council was telegraphed to the headquarters of the corporation at Philadelphia, and was asked through the Chamber of Commerce by the corporation before the site for the shipbuilding plant is chosen here. In addition they will use 2650 feet of tidelands adjoining this in National City. According to present plans the Chollas Slough is to be the dividing line between the concrete and the steel shipbuilding plants, and is to be dredged into a basin to be used for launching ships.

PITCHES HAY, WILL DRIVE FARM TRACTOR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 2.—Miss Mary Coontz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Coontz, No. 1151 South White avenue, has the distinction of being the first Pomona girl to join the land army.

A few days ago Miss Coontz, who is a sturdy athletic, young lady, enlisted with the government officials as a truck or tractor driver as a specialty, but agreed at the same time to take whatever form of farm labor that may be desired of her. She expects to go to work in some part of Southern California, hauling loads over routes selected by government officials.

While waiting for her assignment, and not wishing to be idle meanwhile, the patriotic young Miss went to San Bernardino, where she has a job as a ranch hand, pitching hay, irrigating, and doing other ranch and farm work. Miss Coontz is a graduate of Pomona High School, later a teacher in Pomona schools, and is a real patriot. She says the soldier boys need home backing, and that she can do her bit by helping with farm work, as well as by carrying a gun.

RED CROSS WORKER NOW.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BEAUMONT, July 2.—The American Red Cross added to its force of workers the first of the week when R. S. Roberts of this city left for New York to take up work in the Supply Department. He expects to sail for Italy about the 15th.

NORTH WHITTIER HEIGHTS.
5 TO 50-ACRE TRACTS AVAILABLE ON EASY TERMS.

You'll be unable to find healthier-looking citrus, avocado and walnut trees in the State than you will see at North Whittier Heights. Soil and climatic conditions are particularly adapted to citrus culture here. The fact that over $170,000 has been invested in improvements for the development of North Whittier Heights is proof aplenty that this district offers great possibilities to early investors. Choice tracts of any desired size, unplanted or planted to 1, 2, 3 and 4-year-old trees, some of which have already arrived at the age of production. Let us show you this thriving district. Then you can judge for yourself. Arrange with us now to inspect North Whittier Heights, 16 miles from L. A. Call, write or phone for our booklet. Folder on request. See Grover T. Lieut. John F. Burton, U.S.A., of Fort Worth, Tex., was a speaker at a meeting of the Yale Alumni Association at noon yesterday at the University Club. He spoke on some of his experiences in the aviation work.

Regarding Questionnaires.

Will Hays, secretary of the Legal Advisory Board, issued an appeal yesterday for more care in filling out draft questionnaires. "The new questionnaire is more specific than the old ones, and more care should be taken in filling them out," he said. "Regarding occupation, reference should be made to the key number. All questions should be answered specifically; nothing should be taken for granted."

MOTHER'S PLEA WINS.

Appeals to Judge to Not Take Her Child in Suit—Jurist Changes Order.

"Do not take my child away from me; you will tear my heart to pieces; sentence me to death rather than take away my children," sobbed Louise Lawlor Reynolds in Judge Avery's court yesterday at the conclusion of the bitterly-contested divorce action against Lynn Fairfield Reynolds, moving-picture director. The court had made an order taking from Mrs. Reynolds the custody of her children, and denying a decree to either party.

After a moment's thought, Judge Avery awarded the children to their mother and ordered Mr. Reynolds to pay $75 a week alimony.

This is the second divorce action, Mrs. Reynolds having obtained a decree in Colorado on the ground of desertion, but became reconciled to her husband for the sake of their child and remarried Mr. Reynolds in this city.

KOSHER BUTCHERS APPEAL TO COLE.

COMPLAIN THAT PICKETING IN BOYLE HEIGHTS IS RUINING THEIR BUSINESS.

Twenty-one members of the Kosher Butchers' Association and seven members of the Hebrew Bakers' Association met last night in the offices of Louis M. Cole, City Food Administrator, and laid before him evidence that their businesses were being ruined through picketing by members of the Boyle Heights Consumers' League.

Members of the Consumers' League had been invited to attend the meeting, but none appeared. The trouble is said to be based on the demands of the consumers that they receive Kosher meats at 21 cents per pound. These meats are boneless and are said to cost the butchers 17 cents a pound. Pickets have been stationed outside the butcher shops and in some cases it is alleged that damage has been done to stocks of meats. According to the butchers, complaints to the police have done little good, and as a last resort Mr. Cole was appealed to.

Mr. Cole told the members that he had no authority to regulate prices, yet he desired at all times to smooth out such matters and that he would use his office to assist them as far as possible. A committee of three members from both associations was appointed to wait on Chief of Police Butler and City Prosecuting Attorney Widney today in an effort to have the picketing stopped.

QUICK ACTION.

In Judge Wood's court yesterday William Hyde declared that a few days ago, when he was leaving for work, he kissed his wife, Pearl V. Hyde, good-by, and was served with papers in her divorce suit. They were married in 1913 and separated four times. Mrs. Hyde alleges that when he choked her on one occasion she defended herself with a hatpin. The court awarded her alimony of $35 a month until the suit can be tried.

No Holiday.

CONGRESS TO KEEP AT WORK.

Hope to Close for "Fourth" Goes Glimmering.

Recess by Week End, Maybe, but no Certainty.

House Blanket "Manana" Resolution Blocked.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Congress today disposed of much important legislation, but encountered a variety of obstacles in its programme to recess this week until August 16. Hopes to close down tomorrow for the Fourth of July holiday were abandoned, and while most leaders believed they could recess Friday or Saturday, others thought Congress might be held in session indefinitely.

The resolution authorizing the President to take over the telegraph and telephone lines, the $12,000,000,000 Army Appropriation Bill, the proposal to increase the government guaranteed price for wheat to $2.50 per bushel, and war-time prohibition were among the issues in the complex legislative situation delaying a recess.

RECESS PLAN BLOCKED.

Leaders' plans for beginning the Congressional vacation late this week were based on a programme of postponing decisive action on all but the army supply measure until Congress returns in August. To this end the House today passed a blanket resolution continuing, as an emergency, last year's appropriations for the army, agricultural department and other government agencies whose appropriation bills have not yet been enacted, but the resolution was blocked in the Senate until tomorrow. Technically, the delay in enacting the emergency resolution left the army, Department of Agriculture and a few other government bureaus without funds.

'TWIXT LOVE AND DUTY.

Although Speaker Clark tonight said the recess plans had "gone glimmering," others leaders of both Senate and House were not so pessimistic. Their plans were to have the resolution empowering the President to take over telegraph and telephone lines reported to the House and lie over until August. However, if the administration insists on passage of the resolution before the recess is taken, leaders were doubtful of securing a respite for Congress at any early date.

Leaders were agreed that the army appropriation bills should be completed before any recess is taken. Slow progress on Senate legislative amendments to the bill was made today by the conferees.

Senate and House conferees held another futile conference today on the $11.80 wheat amendment and adjourned until tomorrow, with house managers indicating a compromise may be suggested in view of the Senate's insistence on the price increase.

"DRY" PROSPECT.

Senate debate on war-time prohibition, set for today, also went over, with many leaders predicting postponement of action until after the recess.

In cleaning up pending appropriation bills, the Senate, without a roll call, passed the General Deficiency Appropriation Bill, after eliminating a provision to add $56,000,000 to the $60,000,000 already authorized for housing government workers. The Senate ignored a request for $100,000,000 sent in today by the housing commission. Failure of the commission to use the $60,000,000 authorized several months ago was the reason given for the Senate's action.

The House Ways and Means Committee plans tomorrow to close hearings which began June 7 on the revenue bill, preparatory to beginning tentative drafts of the $8,000,000,000 measure.

SUPERVISORS ASKED FOR TAX REDUCTION.

The Supervisors, sitting as a board of equalization, passed on and took under submission yesterday twenty-four applications for reductions of assessment. A large number of the applications were from charitable institutions. Among the organizations which asked for a nominal assessment were the Y.M.C.A. of South Pasadena, the Little Sisters of the Poor, the Japanese Children's Home, the International Bible Institute Association and the Boys' and Girls' Outdoor Society.

The board will sit until the 15th inst. It will have before it about 500 applications, which Chairman Hamilton says is the normal number.

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! Yes! It is harmless.

NUXATED IRON

Increased strength of delicate, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances. Tried and highly endorsed by former United States Senators and Members of Congress, well-known physicians and former Public Health officials. Ask your doctor or druggist about it.

To Acquire Curly Hair In a Single Night

Hair tortured with the hot curling iron is bound to become dry, harsh and brittle, as so many know from sad experience. It's far more sensible to use plain liquid silmerine, which can do no harm and which produces a curliness much prettier and more natural in appearance. This has the peculiar property of drying in the most beautiful waves and creases imaginable. It is also a fine dressing for the hair, preserving its texture and health. Keeping it delightfully soft and glossy. A few ounces from the druggist will last for weeks, so it is not at all expensive.

Liquid silmerine is not sticky or greasy and it won't stain or streak hair or scalp. A convenient way to use it is to pour a little into a saucer and then with a clean tooth brush apply evenly to the hair from root to tip. If this is done before retiring the added glory to one's "crowning glory" will be quite in evidence in the morning. The hair will be nice and fluffy when combed out.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, July 2.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, meteorologist.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.94; at 5 p.m., 29.90. Thermometer reg. the corresponding hours showed 61 deg. and 70 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 94 per cent.; 5 p.m., 70 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., west, velocity 3 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 9 miles. Highest temperature, 75 deg.; lowest, 60 deg. Rainfall for season, 12.95 inches; last season, 18.26 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The barometer continues high over the greater portion of the United States, the pressure being low only on the immediate Atlantic coast and in Montana and Arizona. Showers are reported from the New England States and in portions of Southern California, Utah, and Arizona. The latter depression is causing fogs and cloudy weather in Southern California, which will probably continue during the evening and morning hours in Los Angeles and vicinity, with probable showers in the mountains.

ORCHARD REPORTS.—Minimum and maximum temperatures from orchards reported to the Los Angeles office of the U. S. Weather Bureau today are as follows:

JUDGE BLEDSOE ADDRESSES AMERICANIZATION MEETING; OTHERS GIVE TALKS

"We must set our face against any suggestion of taking the law into one's own hands. This is the prime duty to teach the incoming foreigner," declared Federal Judge Bledsoe last evening at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the Bureau of Americanization at the Bible Institute, at which a large crowd gathered.

"Our whole aim in the program of Americanization is to inculcate in the mind of the immigrant and foreign-born the necessity of being guided by justice and right," he said.

That the United States is to be filled with thousands of German spies was the statement of Lee N. Brunswig, Los Angeles director of Americanization, who presided.

Other speakers last night, all of whom pledged their support in the furtherance of Americanization, included Dr. E. J. Jack, State director of the work; ex-Senator F. P. Flint, who spoke on "Obligation of the Foreign-born;" C. M. Selder, "Democracy and the Draft;" Rev. T. J. Cantwell, who spoke on "Race Prejudice;" Dr. Sigmund Hecht, on "Teaching Patriotism;" Bishop J. H. Johnson, who discussed "Citizenship;" Mary J. WIFE OF FRED W. DARLEY WINS DIVORCE ON THE GROUND OF CRUELTY.

Fred W. Darley was not in Judge Avery's court yesterday to oppose Caroline Darley in her suit for divorce and the degree was granted on the allegations of the complaint. This rings down the curtain [illegible] series of sensational episodes in which the Darleys were mixed.

The Darleys were married in Illinois August 17, 1910, and separated April 17, 1917. Mrs. Darley charges her husband with cruelty and habitual intemperance. One charge of cruelty was the alleged statement of Mr. Darley to saloonkeeper [illegible] he asked to cash a check. Mr. Darley said he wanted the cash to telegraph his father for money and advice as to the disposition of the body of his wife, whom he had found dead in bed beside him.

Another episode in their unhappy matrimonial career was the filing by Mr. Darley against George [illegible] a Chicago clubman, of a suit for $100,000 for alienating the affections of Mrs. Darley. Mr. Hester was represented in Glendale while in the company of Mrs. Darley, but he refuted the charge by announcing that he had married the sister of Mrs. Darley. The alienation suit was subsequently dismissed in court. Mrs. Darley was represented yesterday by Attorney Griffith Jones.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC STRIKERS SEEK TO GO BACK TO WORK.

Seven Hundred Walk Out and Then Vote to Return, but May not be Accepted—Injunction Ties up Plans of Agitators—They Wire to Washington.

SEVEN hours after serving upon President Paul Shoup of the Pacific Electric Railway a formal demand for recognition of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen 700 out of a total of 1500 street car, interurban and freight trainmen in the employ of the Pacific Electric went on strike at 7 o'clock last night.

At a meeting of the strikers held at Burbank Hall later in the evening it was voted that, in view of the injunction secured by the Pacific Electric tying up strike activities until the 10th, the men should offer to go back to work this morning and run the cars as usual until the issues are threshed out or they receive an answer to a telegram they sent to President Wilson on the subject. A number volunteered to take ship-builders' cars out last night but their offer was declined by Asst. Supt. S. E. Wilson of the Pacific Electric. The company is now considering the general offer to temporarily postpone the strike and re-accept the men in employment. In fairness to those who remained loyal, however, there is some doubt if it will be accepted.

The unionized employees ran their cars into the terminals and then informed the dispatchers that they were not going out again. Within five minutes the places of the strikers were filled by extra men, regulars and reserves. There was some delay in the dispatching of some cars thereafter, but not a regular run out of the main station failed to go out.

The strike seems to be a dismal failure at the very beginning. Shortly after 7 o'clock last night United States District Judge Bledsoe issued a temporary injunction directed at the strike organizers.

It was issued at the request of Frank Karr and R. C. Gortner of the Pacific Electric legal department. It includes both Montgomery and Farquharson, the organizers for the B. of L. E. and B. of R. T., includes both organizations as such, and takes in twenty-five individuals who are known to be leaders and agitators.

All these persons and organizations are restrained from interfering of attempting to interfere with passengers or trainmen or property; from enticing or undertaking to entice into the union or away from their work the men who are now running the trains and yards; from trespassing on company property anywhere, and from entering any of its depots or making themselves otherwise conspicuous as strikers, pickets or agitators. This injunction will be argued in Judge Bledsoe's court on the 10th inst., at 10 a.m.

Union workers employed at the Harbor ship plants tried several times to cause demonstrations in the Pacific Electric Station at Long Beach where a crowd of 2000 persons gathered to witness the effect of the strike. Many of the men in the crowd refused to ride on the cars after the platform men had walked off and several unsuccessful attempts were made to picket the station by ship-workers in sympathy with the trainmen.

As a precaution against any disorder at the station, the crowd finally was driven from Ocean avenue, between Pine and Pacific streets, and guard of fifteen sailors was placed in the block to keep people moving.

The first real activity by the strikers began at 9:30 o'clock last night when 150 union leaders undertook to frighten shipyard workers who were on hand to start for San Pedro on a special car at 9:45 o'clock, to go on the night shift.

"Don't ride scab cars. You take your lives in your hands if you do!" the agitators yelled.

The special departed, leaving some of its passengers behind. The unionites then began circulating among the shipbuilders who were waiting for the regular 11:20 train, hoping to intimidate them and thus hinder the shipbuilding programme. This is in strange contrast with the statement of the union organizers who said in their demand yesterday:

"We are not attempting to aid the enemy; we are trying to assist the United States and her allies."

The Pacific Electric Company was thoroughly prepared for last night's strike. When the unionized men left their posts the jobs were filled by extra, regulars, or by office men who are familiar with the work. Dozens of operators, assistant superintendents, dispatchers, agents and other employees who have been promoted from the ranks of the trainmen jumped back into the saddle and the trains rolled out without losing as much as ten minutes' time in any case. Superintendents were everywhere to direct new men who have been broken in during the past few weeks.

Estimates by the company place its working force at 650 trainmen, 680 interurban men, and 182 freight men, making a total of 1520 men. It is believed that less than half that number struck. At San Bernardino the crews running both ways tied their trains up at the barns and left. Until relief men could be sent there traffic was at a standstill. The same condition applied to several other suburban cities. The strike was pulled in good order, however, there being no rough stuff in evidence.

Local traffic in the Santa Monica Bay district was practically demoralized by the walk-out. The few men who remained loyal to the company on the lines running from Playa del Rey to Santa Monica Beach and Santa Monica Beach and Brentwood Park were taken from these to man Los Angeles-bound trains.

In the early evening the Bay City Bus Owners' Association sent several busses to Los Angeles laden with passengers and prepared to handle traffic between the beach cities and Los Angeles if the railway found that it could not.

UNION ULTIMATUM.

The communication received by President Shoup yesterday noon was signed by W. E. Montgomery.

NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS CONCERNED

1. Because the U. S. Mails must have unimpeded movement:—
2. In order that the transportation of troops, munitions, and military stores essential to the effective prosecution of the war may not be obstructed:—
3. To prevent slowing down the building of vessels under construction for the U. S. Shipping Board at or near Los Angeles Harbor:—
4. All persons are warned—and hereby cautioned—that any interference or attempt to obstruct the free passage of freight or passenger trains or trolley cars to or from San Pedro and the Outer Harbor, over any rail line, is at their own peril. Naval guards on each car will attend to the enforcement of these instructions; and it is earnestly requested that such guards shall not be hindered or hampered in the execution of duties with which charged.

Guard Against Trouble.

UNITE TO KEEP PEACE IN RAILWAY WALKOUT.

Government and the Local Authorities Make Preparations to Cope with Any Emergency.

NAVAL, municipal, county and company officers united last night to deal with any situation which may develop from the Pacific Electric strike.

Upon being advised of the action of the union officers in declaring the strike, Capt. H. C. Poundstone, commander of the Submarine Base at the harbor, immediately made preparations to insure adequate car service between Long Beach and San Pedro, Long Beach and Los Angeles, San Pedro and Los Angeles, Arcadia and Los Angeles and Redondo and Los Angeles.

Starting at 6:30 o'clock, half an hour before the strike was scheduled to take place, Capt. Poundstone ordered four armed sailors from the Naval Training Station to each car running between the points mentioned. Each sailor was armed with a rifle with fixed bayonet and a revolver.

When the conductors and motormen left their cars at 7 o'clock and relief crews took their places, two sailors took up a position on each end of the cars to protect the men who remained loyal to the company. By 8 o'clock more than 250 armed guards had been placed on the cars.

Naval authorities also took charge at the stations at the Outer Harbor and Long Beach, where thousands of people congregated to witness the effect of the walk-out. Many were afraid to board the cars manned by strike-breakers after veiled threats had been made by union shipworkers who were members of the crowd.

ASSURED OF SAFETY.

One incident of this kind occurred when a car from the Outer Harbor pulled into the station at Long Beach. The crew prepared for the return trip, but though many of those in the crowd signified their desires to go to the Outer Harbor, they were afraid.

Jumping down from the front end of the car a naval ensign shouted:

"All aboard for San Pedro and the outer harbor. Don't be afraid, the government is going to protect this car and its passengers and see that it reaches its destination safely."

Cheers greeted this declaration.

Sixty-seven carloads of workers at the harbor shipbuilding plants were brought to the city last night on the cars escorted by the sailors, under the command of Ensign J. B. Cooke. They will be taken back again this morning. Provisional headquarters were established at the Pacific Electric Station, where the sailors slept.

Other sailors were placed on the cars operating between Arcadia and Los Angeles and Redondo Beach and Los Angeles. The army balloon school units are stationed at Arcadia, and at Redondo Beach the government is interested in the erection of a concrete shipbuilding plant.

ISSUES WARNING.

To let the public and interested parties know the action and intentions of the government, Capt. Poundstone ordered the following notice printed and posted conspicuously at division points:

"Because the United States mails must have unimpeded movement.

"In order that the transportation of troops, munitions and military stores essential to the effective prosecution of the war may not be obstructed.

"To prevent slowing down the building of vessels under construction for the United States Shipping Board at or near Los Angeles Harbor.

"All persons are warned, and hereby cautioned, that any interference or attempt to obstruct the free passage of freight or passenger trains or trolley cars to or from San Pedro and the outer harbor, over any rail line, is at their own peril. Naval guards on each car will attend to the enforcement of these instructions; and it is earnestly requested that such guards shall not be hindered or hampered in execution of duties with which charged."

POLICE PREPARE.

Shortly before 7 o'clock, the police department's preparations for the anticipated event were completed.

With Chief of Police Butler, and his secretary, Hiram J. Wambold, in the headquarters office, and every division commander at his station or bureau, more than 300 officers, made up of various detachments, were placed in reserve, and arrangements made to shift the different watches so as to maintain the reserve during the twenty-four hours.

Chief Butler and his assistants remained in the office all night, while Capt. Murray and Captain of Detectives Home also made preparations to remain on duty so long as the emergency lasted.

Every detective was called to the Central Station, as were plainclothes men in their respective stations. The motorcycle squad was organized into a mobile reserve detachment.

SERVICE TO BE MAINTAINED ON ALL PACIFIC ELECTRIC ROUTES.

O. A. SMITH, general passenger agent of the Pacific Electric Company, gives the assurance that service on all the main lines of the Pacific Electric will be maintained today, and that the service will improve from day to day until normal conditions are re-established.

"Service on the line serving the shipyards at San Pedro and Long Beach will be absolutely normal," said Mr. Smith last night. "We will keep up the shipbuilding programme unfailingly, and the public may depend upon it. As for the other lines, it would be too much to expect that train service will go along without a hitch, but we are willing to say that adequate, though not necessarily schedule, service will be maintained on all the main lines. The public is bound to experience a certain amount of inconvenience during the readjustment of the operating force."

Mr. Smith branded as an absolute fake the report that the company yesterday notified vacationers to hasten home from the various resorts along the line. It is claimed that many motormen and conductors reaching these resorts circulated among the vacationers the statement that the company had sent out notice for people to hurry home because a strike was about to start.

"The company sent out no such word, either oral or printed," declared Mr. Smith, "and if such a rumor is current it is the work of agitators. We expect to maintain service on all our lines, and there is no cause for alarm. When people want to come back from the resorts we will provide some way to bring them back."

Until July 10.

MEN WOULD POSTPONE STRIKE FOR ONE WEEK.

AT THE Burbank Hall meeting of the strikers last evening, at which it was voted to return to work for another week, Attorney Griffith Jones made a strong patriotic appeal to the men not to interfere with government war work. It was also pointed out that the strike is tied up for a week by the temporary injunction directed at the organizers.

Attorney Jones declared that public opinion is necessary to win and that if the public thought for a moment that lives of nurses and soldiers would be placed in jeopardy by the actions of striking trainmen, their cause would be in disfavor.

"It is not our intention to call this strike off," he said. "We are going back to work tomorrow, not because we have called this strike off, but because we do not want an innocent drop of blood on our hands."

"What will Shoup do between now and July 10?" "He will break enough men in by then." "Why not get an injunction against his doing so?" were cries from the audience.

Attorney Jones said that the injunction does not affect the strikers as a whole, but only restrains the men named against further

Under "Work or Fight" Order.

GOVERNMENT MAY DRAFT STRIKING RAILWAY MEN.

STRIKING Pacific Electric employees automatically become amenable to the provisions of the "work or fight" order, in the view of local draft board officials. The order provides that all men quitting useful occupations in wartime may be ordered back into their jobs, made to get others equally useful or sent into the army. If he fails to respond he becomes a deserter and may be arrested at sight.

Just what action the government will take will depend upon the report made to Capt. Charles T. Connell, who was appointed a month ago from Washington to try to adjust the situation. He is expected to return today from Salt Lake City.

In similar cases, notably the Western Union case, the government tried to prevent a strike and then failing, took its own steps to keep these public utilities going.

The government can order local draft boards to round-up registered men, and, in fact, all men of draft age who have quit their job to go on strike, and order these men to return to their jobs or to get into other war-time essential jobs at once, that is, within not more than five days, or be ordered into the army.

Local draft boards are prepared to carry out any orders they receive in connection with the strike. It is said that more than half of the Pacific Electric employees come within the draft age and carry registration cards. These men are now in deferred classes, on account of their occupations, but if they leave these jobs to go on strike they can quickly be reclassified and ordered before draft boards.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW IS IN EFFEC

TWO CLASSES OF WORKERS RULING FOR WOMEN AND MINORS.

The minimum wage law for women and minors went into force yesterday, and will affect thousands of workers in California, it was stated by the Industrial Welfare Commission, which has offices in Room 226 Union League Building.

Two classes of workers are affected, those in general and professional offices and those working at unskilled and unclassified occupations.

By the ruling no experienced woman or minor shall work in such office at a wage rate of less than $10 a week, or $43.33 a month. Female minor learners are to be paid not less than $7 a week for the first six months of their employment, and not less than $8 for the second half year. For the third six months they will be assured at least $9 a week, after which time they are to be considered experienced. On the other hand, the period of apprenticeship for women over 18 years of age considered complete with a year's training, during which time workers are to be paid $8 for the first and $9 a week for the second half of their schooling.

The minimum wage for workers experienced at unskilled and unclassified occupations has been fixed at $9.60 a forty-eight-hour week for adult women, and for those inexperienced, $7.58, or 16 cents an hour. A minor of either sex cannot be employed at this form of labor for less than $7.80, it was stated.

assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; and J. A. Farquharson, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. It covered four typewritten pages. In part it said:

"June 25 we addressed a letter to you, asking for a conference. You replied that no good could be accomplished by a conference as your company does not recognize our organizations.

"The vigorous persecution of your employees who have had no redress forced them to knock at the doors of these organizations for protection. Their membership was not solicited; they were only shown the way to admission.

"You allege this action will cripple shipbuilding and would greatly embarrass the boys from Southern California who are now in the service.

"Committees carefully considered this phase of the situation before submitting a strike ballot to your employees, and learned the shipyards are served by steam lines as well as the Pacific Electric Railway.

"The wages paid by your company for eight-hour service is not a living wage, and necessarily compels them to work excessive hours to earn a living.

"Your policy of lockout which has been in effect on your line for many years is responsible for this action on our part, and the responsibility lies at your door.

"We are not attempting to aid the enemy. We are trying to assist the United States and her allies by assisting her citizens to get fair treatment. In the history of these organizations a more complete organization of a railway system was never made in so short a time as was done on the Pacific Electric Railway.

"The matter has been submitted to your men in the form of a strike ballot, and they have by an overwhelming vote authorized us to advise you that your motormen, trainmen and yardmen will be withdrawn from the service at 7 p.m., July 2, unless you are prepared to discontinue the policy of discriminating against your employees, and further agree to meet committees representing your motormen, trainmen and yardmen and recognize their organizations."

WITHOUT WARNING.

The strike occurred as suddenly as a thunderstorm brews on a picnic day. Within seven hours from the time the union's demand was served upon President Shoup of the Pacific Electric the conductors and motormen had left their cars at the terminals and car barns and gone their way, relying upon the brotherhood to fight it out with the company and deliver to them whatever benefits may accrue.

In real fact, the union organizers "jumped the gun" by serving a short-notice demand upon the Pacific Electric Company after Government Conciliator Connell had made an appointment with President Shoup to discuss the issues of the controversy Friday forenoon at 10:30 o'clock.

FROM MR. SHOUP.

President Shoup yesterday afternoon issued the following statement regarding the situation:

"The demand of Mr. Farquharson and Mr. Montgomery for recognition of the unions they represent was received by me personally about 1:30 p.m., though it had been presented at the office a little after 11 o'clock, only seven hours' time being allowed before the strike order became effective.

"They ask recognition of their unions, which I have declined to concede. That, I judge, is the paramount question with them. Reference has been made heretofore to certain men dismissed from the service of the company who took their case up with Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor at Washington, who in turn referred the subject to Capt. Charles T. Connell.

"Capt. Connell and myself were both absent from the city for some time, but last Thursday upon his return from San Francisco he called me on the telephone, stating that he had to go to Salt Lake City on an important call. I wired him on Saturday that I was ready to discuss each of the cases with him, and he replied today, making an appointment for 10:30 Friday morning. The brotherhoods have therefore disregarded this conciliation as a factor in the case.

"I further stated that we were willing at all times to meet with our employees on any subject touching upon their welfare or the welfare of the company, but I fail to see wherein the outside organizations are a factor. President Wilson's proclamation of April 8, incorporating the National War Labor Board policies, specifically states that an employer not heretofore recognizing unions need not do so during the war and that coercion shall not be used either to make the employees join unions or secure recognition.

"I have been too busy to make full reply to the vice-presidents of the union and particularly to the surprising statements made, but will a little later on.

"One of the statements is to the effect that my associate officers and myself have charged employees with pro-Germanism. This is not true at all as their records will show. I have personally appealed to their patriotism not to tie up passenger transportation essential to war shipbuilding and other war activities and I am hopeful that such appeal has not gone unregarded for the reason that I have a high opinion of the patriotism of our employees as a whole.

"The rumor that I am trying to get the government to take over the Pacific Electric by declining to recognize the unions is absurd. I feel that the government has all the troubles it needs and that we should settle our home difficulties at home. It has not taken over other electric lines where labor trouble has occurred and there is no reason why it should do so here."

PLENTY OF MEN HERE.

Early yesterday afternoon it was common talk around the Pacific Electric offices that President Shoup had been offered the services of from 200 to 500 trainmen from the United Railways of San Francisco, and that these men could be delivered in Los Angeles today, but President Shoup declined to comment upon the rumor, further than to say:

"We need no men from San Francisco. The situation can be handled with our own force.

"The operating strength of the Pacific Electric Company is not known at present, because it is too early to make a conservative estimate of the number of men on strike; but it is a certainty that the company has more extra trainmen than the unionized motormen and conductors imagine.

For many weeks the company has been breaking in extra men at its school. A large number of them were intended for relief workers during the vacation period and for extra work on the shipyard runs, but not a few of them were trained, most likely, for the purpose of meeting just such an emergency as that which confronts the railroad officials today.

Most of the lines where heavy travel prevails, such as the Pasadena Short Line and the Venice Short Line, carry from two to four cars in a train. These cars each have a conductor or ticket taker. Most of the conductors are capable of handling the motorman's job, and the company figures on putting men of little experience in the place of the conductors, and having the conductors who are not on strike fill in as motormen. This they will gladly do in the expectation of getting a better position in the reorganization of the working forces. It is thought probable that many experienced men who have been on the extra list of the Los Angeles Railway will be glad to drop into positions left vacant by Pacific Electric strikers.

From what could be learned among the unionized trainmen yesterday, the union bases its chances to win upon its ability to force the government to take over the Pacific Electric line and Federalize it along with the steam roads.

If enough friction can be inaugurated to draw the attention of the Railroad Administration in this direction the agitators believe that Director-General McAdoo might be prevailed upon to adopt the Pacific Electric in order to stop the strike.

Such a result would be very pleasing to the men, for the government does not object to the organization of unions anywhere, and if the Pacific Electric were Federalized the agitators could then go ahead and complete their organization here. Then, in the course of time, when the government might hand the line back to the company, it would be completely unionized and the closed shop would prevail.

Brotherhood members employed by the steam roads will not handle freight from the Pacific Electric lines while the strike is in progress, the union men declare, according to a company official. No official announcement on this point has been made by the unions so far.

Of a total of thirty-two trainmen employed by the Pacific Electric at Riverside, six obeyed the orders of the union and walked out. Local service was interrupted slightly, but service between Riverside and other points was not disturbed.

chesters were brought out of the police arsenal and placed where they could be pressed into instant service should an occasion arrise.

CANCEL VACATIONS.

Shortly before the reserve began to assemble at the stations, orders were sent out by Chief Butler, canceling all vacation periods and calling in all men starting out on vacations or already out of town.

"We hope there will be no trouble, and will strive in every possible way to avoid anything that may lead to trouble or disorder," Chief Butler announced. "At the same time we have made all preparations to protect life and property and preserve the law in every instance."

The announcement was made following a conference of captains and division commanders, together with City Prosecutor Widney, held in the Chief's office.

A conference of city and Pacific Electric Company officials was held last night at the City Hall to discuss the best means of keeping order.

Bert Farmer, president of the Council, presided for Mayor Woodman, who is out of the city. Others at the meeting were Paul Shoup, president of the Pacific Electric; Frank Karr, attorney for the same company; Chief of Police Butler; City Prosecutor Widney; Howard Robinson, president of the Public Service Commission, and Glenn MacWilliams, secretary to the Mayor.

President Shoup informed those present that if 1500 men should quit he could have the places filled in seven days.

When City Prosecutor Widney was asked if the picketing ordinance will be enforced he said:

"It is a crime to picket any place of business, but this has always been leniently construed. If there is any violence or trouble the participants will be arrested and arraigned on the charge of disturbing the peace. This method of handling strikes was proved the best during the longshoremen strike at the harbor. However, I do not think there will be any serious trouble."

Chief of Police Raymond of Venice asked Chief of Police Butler last night what action was to be taken with privately owned vehicles which accepted passengers to and from Venice and Los Angeles. He was told that if there were no cars running nothing should be done to prevent the carrying of people in jitneys.

SPECIAL ORDERS.

Los Angeles Police Department
Office of the Chief
July 2, 1918.

To All Officers:

A strike has been called on the Pacific Electric Railway, effective 7 p.m. this date, affecting the motormen and conductors of that company.

It has been found necessary to lengthen your hours of duty to twelve, in order properly to protect the public and property from possible injury and damage which frequently results in situations of this kind.

In dealing with the situation you will be careful to avoid unnecessary discussion of the merits of the case with citizens, or to criticise or condemn either side, remembering that your duty is to preserve the peace and protect life and property.

Circumstances may arise in which you will be greatly provoked, and you may be tempted to resort to strenuous methods. You will then remember that the efficient officer is he who retains a cool head and calm demeanor, and that the man who controls himself will be able to control others.

Do not allow your anger to rise, and use no weapons except as a last resort and in self-defense.

[Signed] J. L. BUTLER,
Chief of Police.

Los Angeles Police Department
Office of the Chief
July 2, 1918.

Division Commanders:

Owing to the extraordinary emergency arising, due to strike on the Pacific Electric lines called for 7 o'clock this evening, you will take the following steps to meet the situation:

Cancel all vacations and call in for the time being all men on vacation, ordering them to report for immediate service.

Cancel all days off.

Place your watches on twelve-hour shifts, the night watch working from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., the day watch from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Reduce your night watches by 20 per cent., the 20 per cent. to become a part of the reserve squad.

The morning watches will be thrown into reserve, the day watches reduced to the strength of the present morning watches, and the surplus thrown into reserve.

This order extends to all departments, bureaus and offices.

[Signed] J. L. BUTLER,
Chief of Police.

COMMERCIAL BODY CONDEMNS STRIKE.

MONROVIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DISAPPROVES HINDERING WAR WORK.

Condemning the strike of Pacific Electric trainmen, ordered by union agitators, a set of resolutions was adopted at a special session of the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, the text being as follows:

"Learning that a strike of Pacific Electric Railway employees will be called unless company officials agree to demands made by the men, the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as strongly opposed to such action at this time, on the ground that a strike would hinder this government's successful prosecution of the war, and for that reason should not be called.

"Any move on the part of a corporation or employees of a company or corporation that will tend to hinder the orderly progress of business, or in any way handicap the government, should be publicly condemned, in the opinion of the local organization.

cting action that would delay government work. "This is a temporary injunction and will come up for consideration on July 10. Until that time no one must refuse to do his part in anything to further the war," he said.

As the sentiment of the gathering was against return to work, Mr. Jones proposed another plan. "We will wire President Wilson and place the matter squarely before him," he said.

The President has never failed the workingman, and would grant a Federal investigation. "That will give us just as square treatment as it will the P. E.," the speaker said, and cited instances in support. "We should welcome Federal investigation," he told them. "It will result damn harder for Shoup than for us."

F. A. Farquharson, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who came here from Cleveland to handle the strike, had reminded the men earlier in the meeting of their position and urged them to conduct themselves like gentlemen. He now addressed them again, approving the move to put off the strike.

Attorney Jones reviewed the stand of the strikers and the bad position remaining on strike would place them in with the public. "Shall we suspend our strike until after the Federal investigation?" he said.

"Yes," exclaimed the men, with no exceptions observable.

MUST WORK OR FIGHT.

Police Net Seven in Drive on Poolrooms; Two Prove Innocence, and Others are Held.

Seven men were arrested yesterday by members of the war squad of the police department, under the new order that all able-bodied men of draft age must show some visible means of support. All the men taken into custody were found in poolrooms on Main and Spring streets.

During the morning three men were arrested and taken before the exemption boards of their districts. Two of them convinced the officers that they were legitimate workers, but one man was held. During the afternoon four men were brought to headquarters on the same charges and today will be given an opportunity of proving their innocence before their draft boards.

According to the officers in charge of the round-up, the investigation of all idle men will be continued until further notice.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

Supper-dance.

Former Governor and Mrs. Henry T. Gage have invited a number of Los Angeles young folk to a supper-dance and swimming party, which they are giving at their country home near Downey on the Fourth in honor of their daughter, Miss Fanta M. Gage. The gardens and the rooms of the Gage home will be handsomely decorated in American and other allied flags, and pink and white roses, lavender and pink sweet peas and daisies.

The party will motor over early enough to enjoy a plunge in the handsome swimming pool before supper, after which dancing will be enjoyed. In the party will be Miss Mary Dockweiler, Miss Rosario Dockweiler, Miss Janet Prendergast, Miss Mary Louise Schabarum, Miss Leona Dukeman, Miss Mary Belle Chapman, Miss Marjorie Hines, Miss Catherine Donovan, Mrs. Jeanette G. Donovan, and Messrs. John Dockweiler, Joe Conaty, Jack Donovan and Whitney Johnson, Al Davis, Robert Sweaney, Robert Stearns, Ted Smith and Louis Irvine from the Naval Training Station.

By Dr. and Mrs. Hill.

Dr. and Mrs. Randolph W. Hill entertained a party of friends at a dancing party at their home, No. 4811 Wilshire boulevard. An orchestra furnished snappy music for dancing and supper was served on the veranda. The guests were Judge and Mrs. Russ Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Clar Tappaan, Mr. and Mrs. David Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Birney Donnell, Mrs. Allan Black, Dr. and Mrs. Colegrove, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson, Mrs. John Breckinridge Franklin and Mr. Louis Guernsey.

Bridge Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hooper entertained a company of twelve at a bridge supper last evening. At the tables were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Macbeth, Mr. and Mrs. John Treanor, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Marble, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bohon.

Coronado Gossip.

Hotel Coronado concentrates almost exclusively on war work nowadays, and is chiefly a pleasant headquarters for the army and navy on brief leave, a rendezvous where parents and relations meet their proud young sons, or where invalided officers return for recuperation and rest. Even the once time-merry games are played for Thrift Stamp trophies, and an ominous sign meets the eye at every turn, "Employees are strictly forbidden to serve any alcoholic drinks at tables where a man in uniform is seated."

This week Mrs. J. W. Stevens of Los Angeles, accompanied by Calvin Heaton, with his mother and sister, are visiting Coronado, not only to celebrate the occasion of Neville Stevens's elevation to officers' rank, but also to meet Jack Stevens of the naval aviation department, who arrives this week for a reunion with his family. Mrs. Stevens's third son, Robert, is in the army.

Admiral and Mrs. Fullam and their two daughters are prominent in the frequent social events enjoyed down there, and at present their party is pleasantly augmented with three distinguished British captains, who are instruction officers at Camp Kearny—Capts. Benson, Pinto and Lillie.

Mrs. Toomey's Reception.

Mrs. Lauren Ingels and her daughter, Miss Chellah Otisa Ingels, were honor guests at a reception of elaborate appointments yesterday afternoon, when Mrs William Jerome Toomey of No. 428 Plymouth avenue, Windsor Square, entertained. Mrs. Ingels and her daughter returned here Sunday from San Francisco and Monterey, where they had been ever since Miss Ingels's engagement to Capt. George Derby Holland was made known. The wedding, which will be celebrated next Wednesday evening at the Toomey home, will be a brilliant function.

Miss Amelia Hudner, daughter of Judge John Hudner of San Benito county, will be maid of honor, while the bride's maids will be Miss Florence Gilmore of New York, Miss Helen Murphy of Salinas, Cal., and Miss Lulu Clark of New York, niece of Mrs. Toomey. Capt. Van De Hyden, a class-mate at West Point of Capt. Derby will be best man, and the ushers will also be fellow-officers stationed at Fort Rosecrans. Following the ceremony there will be dancing.

At yesterday's affair, Mrs. Toomey was assisted by Mrs. William J. Doran and Miss Lulu Clark, and Miss Florence Gilmore poured tea. The house, which is one of the most palatial in Windsor Square, was a mass of pink carnations and ferns, and there was music throughout the afternoon. Among the guests were Mmes. A. C. Bilicke, Corwin Ingels, Arthur E. Huntington, Martyn Haenke, Lester M. Dull, Seely Mudd, Harvey Mudd, R. O. Starrett, Lillian M. Coulter, William J. Doran, J. W. Bradford, Carrie Jacobs Bond, Praderm, Belle Harriman, Mrs. William Banks, Llewellyn Banks, John Phillips, C. W. Minchcliffe, A. O. Vickery, L. Verbeck, Samuel B. McClure, W. Otis Johnson, C. Davis, Willard Simpson, C. A. Fellows, Ada Clement, Norman Martin, W. Morris Jones, John Shepherd, Chester P. Hoag, C. M. Dougherty, Harry Haldeman, J. Thompson, Buckingham, the Misses Corinne Ingels, Smith, Mae McClelland, Jones, Rachel Adams, Florence Gilmore, Davis, Lulu Clark, Charlene Coulter, Messrs. and Mmes. Oscar Seiler, W. H. Munson, Roland Paul, R. J. Gaffney, Ray Adams, George Ross, Frank Meline, Messrs. Charles G. Adams, Howard Verbeck, C. H. Thompson, Beach, Edward Pierce, George Reynolds, Merick Reynolds, Albert Turner, Thomas J. Douglas, DeWitt Dougherty.

Personals.

Mrs. G. Mackenzie Malcolm has rented her home at No. 4947 Marathon street, and will sail from San Francisco on Friday to spend the winter with her son, Justice George A. Malcolm of Manila, P. I.

Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long of No. 671 South Vermont avenue has just received word that her brother, Rhodes S. Baker, a prominent Texas attorney of Dallas, has been appointed by the government to a place on the Priority Board and has gone to Washington. He is well known here, having visited Mrs. Long a number of times.

Miss Genoa Edgerly is enjoying an extended visit to the Hawaiian Islands.

Military folk, who have been tarrying awhile at the Hotel Clark, include Maj. and Mrs. J. F. Sharp of Camp Kearny, Maj. and Mrs. McGregor of Santa Barbara, and Lieut and Mrs. W. B. Moyle of Camp Kearny.

Mrs. C. W. Hinchcliffe will spend the Fourth in the mountains taking a day or two off to rest from Red Cross activities. She will return to town Friday or Saturday.

Mrs. Lee Allen Phillips of No. 4 Berkeley square has returned home from an extended visit in the East, most of the time of which she spent with her daughter, Mrs. Weyland Morrison, who was graduated in June from Radcliffe College. As Miss Lucille Phillips, Mrs. Morrison's marriage to Dr. Morrison, stationed with a base hospital in New Jersey, was an event of the fall.

SUES FUGITIVES.

Because of an alleged misrepresentation in the value of the stock of a shoe store in this city, exchanged for land at Venice, Manhattan Beach and South Pasadena, Joseph H. Maideberg filed suit yesterday against George W. Livingston, Robert S. Livingston and Ben Livingston, demanding judgment for $8000, representing the difference in values of the land and the stock.

The Livingstons recently came into the limelight through the allegation by the Federal government of a conspiracy to aid Ben Livingston to evade the draft.

The complaint filed yesterday alleges that the Livingstons induced Mr. Maideberg to exchange his land for the stock of the shoe store, representing that the stock was worth $28,500. It is asserted by Mr. Maideberg that by a secret inventory he found, the stock was shown to be worth only $20,000.

TO OPEN BROADWAY.

Formal Application for Bond Issue is Sent Capital Issues Committee; Tunnel Plea to Follow.

Formal application to the Capital Issues Committee for approval of a bond issue for the opening of Broadway, between Tenth and Pico streets, was dispatched to Washington last night by City Attorney Stephens. Other applications will be made just as soon as the necessary data can be drafted.

It was pointed out by the City Attorney that a big majority of the people owning property within the assessment district favor the improvement and are willing to meet the cost through a bond issue.

The total cost of the project is estimated at $745,862.65, but some of the property owners have promised to waive the issuance of bonds. As a result if they pay cash the total of bonds will be reduced to $640,155.

The next application will be in connection with the proposed tunnel through Bunker Hill at Second street. This argument will be prepared by Gilbert S. Wright, president of the Business Men's Second-street Tunnel Association.

Formal notice of the government's warning to suppress idleness was taken by the Police Commission yesterday, when it refused to grant a license to Antonio Belsito to run a poolroom at No. 415 North Main street.

It was held by the commission that poolrooms encourage loafing and idleness.

Pantages.

"PEACOCK ALLEY."

A COMEDY OF MANY LAUGHS AND SOME DIMPLES.

A new type of detective—the dimple detective—is introduced to a laughter-loving public in "Peacock Alley," the comedy of fashionable New York that is heading the Pantages bill this week. He is searching for a lost set of dimples that has a beautiful woman attached, and finds a set he believes is the right one. After many comical complications, it is discovered that he has the wrong woman, but as the dimples are eighteen carat and their setting is priceless, he decides to keep the article himself.

Lewis Allen is the author of the comedy, whose cast of ten is headed by Elwood F. Bostwick as a hustling lawyer, who turns detective, and by Vivian Blackburn, who "is tall, beautiful and has dimples."

A close rival even to the scintillating display of "Peacock Alley" is handsome "Oklahoma Bob" Albright, the idol of Angelenos, whose voice is generally heard on the inside of theaters having a S.R.O. sign outside.

Other numbers on the bill are McConnell and Simpson with a snappy comedy sketch; Diana Bonner, with gowns and songs; Gaston Palmer, who juggles balls in one hand and laughs with the other; Harry Coleman and Ray, whose entertainment is light but nourishing, and finally, William S. Hart in one of the woolly pictures of the great West that make him so popular.

"The City of Tears."

Some day Universal (or somebody) will find a play that's big enough to give Carmel Myers's personality enough opportunity and her talent enough room. "The City of Tears," though a very entertaining little picture play—you may see it at the Superba this week—doesn't do it. Why shoot flies with cannon balls?

The story is provided with a fresh setting—a bunch of stranded Italian grand-opera singers — with Miss Myers as the prima donna forced to take work as a "woman salesman" with an Italian delicatessen dealer. (Are there any Italian delicatessen dealers?)

Miss Myers has a few moments of real acting, as in the scene with the forsaken girl "who had loved too much," and in her scenes with her Italian friend, the shopkeeper.

The entire cast is excellent. The main criticism lies with either the direction, resulting in the too quick action of the players, or in faulty projection—it is hard to tell which.

There are in addition a news weekly and an L-Ko comedy.

"The House of Gold."

With "The House of Gold," Emmy Wehlen's latest production, as the film feature, and five high-class vaudeville acts, composing the legitimate portion of the programme, the Burbank offers a bright bill this week.

"The House of Gold" is the story of a young girl who was forced to marry an unscrupulous millionaire by her mercenary mother. The living hell through which this young girl passes supplies thrills galore, while the element of mystery which runs throughout the entire production holds the extremely dramatic climax in reserve until the last few feet of film.

The vaudeville headliner is Delphino and Delmora, who offer a line of music; Thelma Crocker, juvenile entertainer; Frank Minor Trio, with excellent singing voices; Harry Harris, black-face comedian; Rose and Dell, sensational cyclists.

Johnson Dean Revue.

Some of the electricity that has been charging around in the Los Angeles atmosphere recently must be responsible for the jazz and pep that is introduced at the Hippodrome this week in the Johnson Dean revue. This company of colored artists, direct from the Eltinge Theater in New York, have the fastest, snappiest dancing and singing act that has been seen in months. The cakewalk, the hula hula dances, the sofe-shoe dancing of George Primrose and all kinds of eccentric steps are the natural thing for these agile actors.

The three Moriarity girls get their share of applause with their smiles and daintiness. Murphy and Lockmar nearly corner all the laughs with their "trust; Miss Lockmar, with her plumpness, knows full well how to get the chuckles. Earl and Curtis wrangle in the usual domestic way over the summer vacation. A light wire many feet above the stage proves to be the natural abiding place of Bell and Grey. Kramer and Cross, both beautiful specimens of the developed human body, give a first-class exhibition of handstanding. Glenna is a singer with a big voice attuned to the more popular melodies.

"Jazz Waiter" and "Tiger Man."

A jazz waiter, a tiger man and war gardens compounded would result in a strange alloy of drama but happily they are well separated on the Palace screen this week.

Charlie Chaplin is the "jazz waiter" and a jazzy jazz waiter is he! To see him take the corners on high with a tureen of green turtle on high also is a thrill that it is hard to duplicate. And the other little things Charlies does to make himself generally useless around the cabaret are diverse and comical.

William S. Hart is the man with the savagely feline characterization. In "The Tiger Man" he sportively carries off a minister's wife and takes her to his mountain fastness. And the minister's wife, played by pretty June Novak, has the bad man purring and eating out of her hand before very long—such is the way of women. He even sheathes his tiger claws, carries her safely back to her husband and walks over to the Sheriff and asks to be put in a cage. Hart has one of his best parts here and does full justice to it.

"War Gardens," planted in a Christies comedy, might seem fated to suffer the buffets of a cruel fate and crueler director. They do. It is an amusing and typical comedy of entanglements, lovers and other pleasantly vexatious things.

HART TO PLAY SOLDIER.

FAMOUS WESTERN ACTOR PARKS HIS CHAPS.

By Grace Kingsley.

Laid away in such manner and so well greased that rust will not corrupt nor will moth destroy are William S. Hart's well-known chaps and six-shooters, while the famous Wild West actor has adopted a great big soldier gun and a suit of khaki as the principal personal scenery to be used in his next picture.

In other words, Mr. Hart will in his next Artcraft production, on which he has just commenced work, appear as a United States soldier. Even now his cohorts are looking for suitable locations in which to make his new picture, with the exception that one of the United States military posts in Arizona, where troops of cavalry are stationed, will be the scene of several bits of stirring action.

Sallie Fisher will Motor.

Having engaged a house at Beverly Hills, Sallie Fisher, who is scoring at the Orpheum in "The Choir Rehearsal," will spend the summer in the West with her husband, Arthur Houghton, who is Fred Stone's manager. Miss Fisher is mistress not only of the gentle art of driving a car, but is likewise mistress of a car, in which she expects to tour Southern California.

In the meantime Clare Kummer, author of "The Choir Rehearsal," is expanding the playlet into a three-act comedy in which Miss Fisher expects to appear next season.

Another Big War Benefit.

Los Angeles moving-picture people are to stage another big war benefit. Once again every star will be present, but instead of following past practices the audience is to be made up of no one but members of the film colony.

The Motion-Picture War Service Association, recently formed in Los Angeles, and spreading in its scope throughout the nation, to every city, town or hamlet where pictures are shown, is responsible for the coming entertainment, which will be held on August 2 at the Shrine Auditorium. It will be a mask ball.

To be a real benefit, there must be money in sight, and because the motion-picture people are tiring of the constant bazaar and booth calls, such attractions will be done away with in this case, and one lump sum will be taken at the door. The price of admission is to be $3.

It's going to be somewhat of an exclusive affair, too, for the announcements read that no one but motion-picture people will be allowed to attend, and they will be there only on invitation. The invitations will be issued on request and proof that the would-be guest is an honest-to-goodness moving-picture person.

With a month behind it as an organization, the Motion Picture War Service Association is now in full swing, establishing salvage stations and workrooms in each of the studios, and arranging for a doubling of war work among all the people employed.

The committee in charge of the masquerade has not yet issued any announcement as to the thrills to be given, although it is certain that there will be new "stunts" and much of interest to the people of the art.

New Morosco Actress.

An addition of note was made to the Morosco company yesterday when there arrived to play a part in the "Potash and Perlmutter" play a member of a distinguished theatrical family, Grace Harrigan. Miss Harrigan is a daughter of Edward Harrigan, noted playwright-actor, author of a number of comedies with music, successful in other days, and including "Old Lavender," "The Four Hundred," and sister of William Harrigan, famous for his interpretation of Jimmie Gilly in "Bought and Paid For." Miss Harrigan has two New York theatrical seasons to her credit, having appeared with Margaret Anglin and with Arnold Daly. At present her three brothers, including William, are in France with the United States Army, and all have commissions as captains.

Sheehan in New Play.

Thomas Sheehan, well known to screen and stage, has been engaged to play a part in "Potash and Perlmutter in Society."

Siegemann a Soldier.

And now there will go forth to fight for his country no less a person than big George Siegemann, assistant to D. W. Griffith, who is remembered for his acting in "The Clansman" and in "Hearts of the World," the latter of which, by the way, is playing a return engagement at Clune's Auditorium. So that, while all over the world Siegemann is being shown on the screen as Von Storhm, the German spy, in reality he will be plugging the Germans with good American bullets "somewhere in France."

Mr. Siegemann will not go as a private, however. Already he has received his commission as first lieutenant in the Signal Corps from the government at Washington. He is now at the fighting business, having been a soldier in the Spanish-American War—in fact, it is stated he was the youngest soldier in the United States Army to take part in battle.

By a sardonic stroke of fate, Siegemann's father fought for the Germans in the Franco-Prussian War, and George has the Iron Cross awarded his dad for bravery during that war.

Dixey Writes Memoirs.

After all, Henry E. Dixey, well known both as a writer and actor and as Marie Nordstrom's husband, isn't to come West this summer, though Miss Nordstrom, whose little girl is accompanying her on her present trip, has taken a house in Hollywood and will spend a short vacation here. Instead Mr. Dixey will remain at home on Long Island and write his memoirs, which, it is said, contains more famous names from every walk in life than a motion picture, "Who's Who."

Miss Nordstrom, who has made one of the hits of the season with her novel characterization sketch at the Orpheum, will play a return engagement in San Francisco, and for this purpose is writing a new sketch, composed of several new impersonations, the chief of which is that of a lady in a Turkish bath—that is, of course, in the Turkish-towel stage of the Turkish bath.

Bertha Mann to Leave.

Bertha Mann, popular leading woman of the Morosco Theater, is planning to return to New York within two weeks. She is rehearsing the leading feminine role in "Potash and Perlmutter in Society," the Montague Glass play, which made a hit in New York season before last, but will not appear in it, she stated yesterday, in case "Young America," which bids fair to have a run, exceeds a two weeks' stand.

Whether Miss Mann expects to play the lead in a Morosco production when she reaches New York, she would not say, and it is understood she has received an offer from another producer, but in any event she is looking forward eagerly to returning to the metropolis.

New Film Light.

Mme. Ratan Devi, the famous musician and writer, who has just returned from India, and who is scoring a sensational hit in "The Light of Asia," the outdoor play which Krotoria Institute is putting on in Hollywood, may shortly appear in picture productions. It is understood negotiations are now on between Mme. Devi and one of the big picture companies of this city.

Refused to Film.

During the recent appearance of Maude Adams at the Mason in this city, it is known that one of the largest of the western film companies offered her $500,000 to put "Peter Pan" on the screen. This offer, it is related, was most decisively declined, Miss Adams stating she would never appear in pictures.

Not in the Script.

And now Jewel Carmen, Fox star, says she will never go abroad in the mountains without a six-shooter in one hand, even if she does bear a ukulele in the other. For Miss Carmen had a bit of a scare the other night at Huntington Lake, where her company was taking scenes for her current picture. It seems that she was sitting on a rock in the evening, following the labors of the day, humming a cute little tune to the music of the tuneful ukulele, when she chanced to glance down. With a gasp she discerned what looked like six balls of fire. Then, taking another peak, she saw that what she had thought were balls of fire were the glaring eyes of three wild cats. Enchanted by the music, the creatures had come out in the night to hear her sing. She admits she speedily got up and went away from there.

Bear Will Act.

Arriving rampant on a field of half-gnawed cabbage heads, the bear bestowed on Theda Bara by the company of soldiers at American Lake who recently were called to France, arrived safely at the Fox studio last Sunday. However, she is not to be allowed a life of slothful ease, but is to be made to contribute to the cause of art. In short, she will appear in Miss Bara's next picture, which, as announced a few days ago, is to be a comedy.

Not that the comedy is to be any sort of a jazz comedy, for it is understood the play is to be high comedy; but this fact, opines Director J. Gordon Edwards, does not preclude the writing in of a cute little bit for a talented bear.

"S. O.S." IS SMOKE OUT SLACKERS.

Rosecrans Camp, Sons of Veterans, Sends Out Call to Loyal Citizens.

Gen. W. S. Rosecrans Camp No. 2, Sons of Veterans, yesterday sent out an appeal to all Sons of Veterans in Southern California to assist in "smoking out disloyal people."

"The commander of Rosecrans Camp has appointed an S.O.S. Committee (smoke out the slackers,) whose duty it will be, assisted by every member, to see that no slacker or traitor shall live in peace in America and that the extreme penalty of the law be enforced for every disloyal offense. There will be no compromise or peace until the Stars and Stripes float over Berlin," the appeal says. It is signed by William H. Hyden, camp commander.

LONG BEACH HAS A NEW PAVILION.

AMUSEMENT PLACE ON SILVER SPRAY PIER WILL BE OPENED TOMORROW.

The opening of the new amusement pavilion on the Silver Spray Pier at Long Beach will be celebrated tomorrow by civic organizations and amusement men at the beach city. The structure, which will have a capacity exceeding 2000, was built practically in a single week under the direction of Fortune Lanier and a small army of workmen who labored in continuous shifts to get the spacious auditorium completed with the arrival of Independence Day.

While the new pavilion will be utilized by dancing visitors each afternoon and evening, it will be used for many other purposes as well. Patriotic organizations will have the use of the pavilion for the raising of funds for war purposes and the aid of those at the front and their families here. Already motion-picture leaders have set afoot plans for a big celebration.

For tomorrow afternoon and night an attractive free entertainment has been secured by Manager Lanier. It consists principally of the United Entertainers, a company of talented colored musicians, singers and dancers under the direction of J. F. Parker. They will appear in a continuous performance on the Silver Spray plaza.

THE DISTURBER.

An agitator is one who works with his face instead of his hands and when he fights he uses the same weapon that Samson so famously advertised—the jawbone of an ass. His fellowman is better off without him.

THE MINORITY MEMBER.

There was only one man in the graduating class of sixty-seven at the Ohio Normal School and his eyesight was so poor he couldn't see to shoot at the Kaiser. It must be embarrassing for one man to be chained up in a company of sixty-six girls. He must be full of hair pins.

KEEP THINGS GOING.

It is not necessary that public improvements vital to the life and future of a community should be halted by the war. Practically all the work can be done by men who are not available for military service and the money expended goes at once into circulation and is almost immediately available for the purchase of Liberty Bonds or War Stamps. The conduct of the war is not embarrassed one iota.

THE SINGERS OF GARVANZA.

What Southern California is to the people of the United States, Garvanza seems to be to the blackbirds and mockingbirds. Those little feathered creatures seem to consider Garvanza as their chief rendesvous, their principal summer resort, their home, their special kingdom. No census has ever been taken of their number, but doubtless there are hundreds of thousands of them among the live oaks, on the lawns, in the arroyo and along the flower-strown parkways. They've got all the cats bluffed to a standstill and even humans hardly dare go too near their nests. From early morning to sunset and far into the night they chatter and sing just as if there were no war, no tragedy and no sorrow in all the world.

GOD'S MOVING PICTURES.

Not long ago the writer of this paragraph said that there could be nothing more beautiful than the sunlight on the green and golden hills of Southern California in early spring unless it was the moonlight on the brown hills of the Southland in late fall. The recent manifestation of the elemental fire of God, playing in sheets and streaks among the foothills, revealed a still more striking, though awful beauty, showing a scene which one may hardly hope to see but once or twice in a lifetime. "The moving finger writes and, having writ, moves onward," but on the sensitive plate of the beholder's mind the wondrous picture remains indelibly fixed, a silent, eternal witness of cosmic power and intelligence. Truly, "the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork."

JEALOUS OF FORD.

The action of the Democrats of Michigan in agreeing to run no candidate for United States Senator, but to support Henry Ford, who is a Republican, for that office, has so disgruntled ex-Gov. Chase S. Osborn, who aspires to the toga, that he charges around like a bob-tailed bull in fly time and says that HE does not consider Mr. Ford a fit person for a United States Senator. He declares that Ford's presence in the United States Senate under present conditions would be in violation of a criminal law of the United States. Osborn says that Ford is dangerous because of his great wealth, that Ford's ridiculous peace ship enterprise was criminal if done for advertising purposes, and insane if sincere.

Osborn cites six things that Ford is "said to have said" that led to the sacrifice of thousands of our soldiers whose lives would have been saved if we had got into the war earlier.

Osborn's grouch against Ford originated before the war, when Osborn was Governor of Michigan, and (as he says) Ford offered to give him a nickel-plated car. It looks like a green case of jealousy on Osborn's part.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

If certain scientists and metaphysicians are right in their theory about "thought-forms," and if it is true that when one thinks of any condition or thing that thought is sure to become, some time, somewhere, actual or material, it is not so difficult to understand how the present tragedy and unrest of human life came to be, although it brings us no nearer to the reason why it is so. However, leaving aside the why of the matter—which man can hardly hope to understand—the awful, yet majestically beautiful fact of each individual's responsibility cannot be escaped, and the acceptance of the theory that thoughts are directly responsible for conditions would go far toward making all of us more careful of the quality of thoughts we harbor and cultivate. Without daring to delve too deeply into the mystery of the cosmic will and intelligence, we may at least know of a certainty that in human life no invention nor construction can be wrought, no conduct indulged in, no system of ethics or politics set up unless it be preceded by thought. Long ago the Master said, "He that lusteth after a woman in his heart the same hath committed adultery," and, later, one of His disciples wrote, "He that hateth his brother is a murderer."

BOXING AND BATTLING.

If Uncle Sam could ever get the Kaiser into a twenty-four-foot ring it wouldn't be many minutes before a complete knockout would be registered.

When it comes to walloping with the mitts, the Americans, the Irish, the Italians and the Jews have the men of the Rhine country hunting their holes. Even a solid ebony scout like Jack Johnson could beat up many times his weight in pink-faced Heinies. As for the average American, he would rather fight than eat and even a Potsdam referee could not save a Prussian opponent from being beaten to a pulp.

It is the policy of the War Department to give every American soldier an active training at the boxing game. There is a complete set of rules to govern army contests and they are quite different from those in use for engagements at Vernon or other home-grown battle fields. The dicta laid down by the lamented Marquis of Queensberry are followed to some extent and there is no premium on defensive fighting. The rules are framed for short, snappy, aggressive scraps in which the contestants carry the battle out in front at the first dash.

The idea is that there is nothing like this boxing business to develop the speed and initiative that count in a bayonet charge. Likewise it develops courage, aggressiveness and self-reliance. With innate modesty we blushingly confess that left to his own resources the American soldier is the most superb fighting machine in the world. As an individual warrior he has Ajax looking around for help. Whether he is a pianomover or a bank clerk, he has been brought up to believe that he is the equal of any man on earth—and possibly two of them. He can recognize everything but his superiors. When it gets to that his eyesight is poor.

With the Prussians it is different. The ordinary Teuton is the servant of the autocratic or official class. He really knows very little of fighting, but does as he is told and goes where he is driven. If he wins it is through sheer weight of numbers—not because of the initiative or ability of the individual.

An American officer has to be fleet of foot to lead his men to it when a charge is ordered. Unless he is a ten-second man they are almost sure to beat him out. But he tries hard. With the Germans it is still different. Usually the officers have to stay behind to drive the men to their tasks and sometimes when the men are laggards they are shot down by their own captains. Such a situation would be absolutely impossible in the American ranks and the gravest task is restraining the men from exposing themselves to annihilation.

Left utterly to himself the German private soldier is a poor fighter. Usually he is a bad marksman and he is clumsy with the bayonet. He is not at all resourceful and always there is a pitiful dependence upon some one higher up—something that bears the fetish of the Hohenzollerns. He has nothing to fight for. Even if he is brave and reliant the gates of promotion are closed against him, unless he is born of the officeholding class.

But every American is a potential major-general, and the rookie of today may command a regiment tomorrow. So it is that when the American takes up the real business of fighting he does it with a painstaking eagerness born of the democracy in which he was sired.

That is why the War Department was so quick to apply the boxing game as a part of the training of the soldier. It takes his natural aggressiveness and independence and develops them along practical lines. He takes to it as naturally as he does to baseball and it brings those qualities of pugnacity and alertness which make the real bayonet fighter. On this point Dr. Joseph E. Roycroft, head of the athletic department of training camp activities, remarks: "Success in bayonet warfare depends upon aggressive determination and attack even more than skill. Boxing develops the aggressiveness of offense. A fierce attacking forward bayonet charge means a 95 per cent. quota of fighting men returned to safety. That is one important reason why the new boxing rules set a high premium upon offensive rather than defensive fighting."

So it is that more than a million men are being trained and encouraged in boxing. There will be company and regimental champions and when division heroes meet the contest is permitted to go six rounds, otherwise all bouts are four-round affairs of two minutes to the round. This makes for the fast and aggressive style of fighting.

In the finals the bayonet is apt to determine the battle. An army can use the bayonet when its ammunition is exhausted and its reserves unattainable. In that hour watch the pace of the American soldier who has handled himself capably in the roped arena.

OCEAN-LOVE.

In Monday's Times was a short account of the experiences of a Los Angeles sailor, who, together with a crew of thirteen and the captain and his wife, fled from a burning ship in a twenty-two-foot launch; and through tropic calms and thunderous storms the party, hungry, thirsty, famished, made its way over 1400 miles to port.

That is but a little incident in the records that man has wrought upon the watery, effacing parchment of the ocean the incident will scarcely be remembered tomorrow morning except by the sailors themselves and their relatives; and men will continue to go to sea in perishable crafts—and who can design one that is not perishable when the ocean raises her mountainous arms to strike? Go to make their Odyssey in open boats, to nearly die of hunger and thirst ere they gain port. And then—well, to those who know something of the sea, it would be more strange if the watery wayfarers should remain snug on land than if they again should take to an outward-bound forecastle.

It is not for the money the merchants pay that men go to sea—that sailors go. The pittance of wage is of itself no inducement. The work is hard, the food poor. It is said that some skippers are human beings, but they're mostly referred to as devils.

Between the men who go down to the sea in ships and the old ocean there is an incommunicable understanding. The ocean is loved with a love that is given to no other fleshless thing. Its dangers and cruelty are realized; and there is never a sailor who has not foresworn himself with an oath not again to set foot on a caulked deck. But no other mistress has called so many men back to her as the ocean.

And when you speak of exports and imports, of the great shipping trade, of the commerce that flows up and down the ocean channels, you are seldom aware of what is behind it all. If men hated the ocean as they love it, there were not gold enough to get a crew to take a freighter even coastwise. There are some few people who are really terrified by the broast of water that heaves sentiently within the horizon bowl; and there would be no commerce, no matter what wage was offered, if these were all from whom seamen were fashioned. And were it not for the fearful attraction of the ocean, the strange, even passionate love, not sheer wage and the innate heroism within mankind would take the ships out in anything like the fleets with which they have always sailed.

The sentiment in this world is underestimated, undervalued. People have got in the way of looking at gold and thinking that it actuates all motives and is the guerdon of all effort. It is less true of seamen than of others. As the Doge of Venice ceremoniously wedded the Adriatic, so almost every man that has mounted to the crow's nest has felt in the long hours of the midnight watch that something almost ritualistic was binding him to the ocean; and wherever he goes in after life and whatever he does, he will feel a longing to again stand against a shoreless line and be tossed to the magic rhythm of the unresting waves.

Man came up out of the water, and the gills that served his amphibian ancestors may still be traced in the throats of the now land race. But the call of the ocean will not be denied. Any day at any beach the crowds rush out to meet the breakers, and cry with a sort of ecstatic exultation that none can explain, though all understand. Mankind, so evolutionists say, in his infancy was rocked in the cradle of the ocean; and she draws her children again and again to her, giving them back strength, giving them something psychic that eludes perception—something that strikes deep emotionally, but is mentioned only in such crude terms as "fun" and "health."

EXCUSES FOR WAR.

In all ages and under all forms of government men have sought and obtained distinction not merely by their mental powers or their moral excellence, but by the performance of great deeds of carnage and destruction. "He who has sacked a city," says the historian Abbott, "stands very high in the estimation of his fellows. He yields precedence only to him whose grandfather sacked one."

Abbott was a good deal previous in his comments when he said, "The age of military murder and robbery and of the glory of great deeds of carnage and blood is passing away, and that of peace, of industry and of achievements for promoting the comfort and happiness of mankind is coming."

The reverse has been the case. For many years prior to 1914 the world made rapid progress in letters, in art and in inventions. The steam engine, the locomotive, the telegraph, the telephone, the phonograph, the sewing machine, the harvester, the wireless, airplane, the chaining of cataracts, the extracting of nitrogen and of electricity from the air and of fertilizers from seaweed were all given to the world within the memory of men still living.

But now for nearly four years men by the million have been fighting and suffering and dying in nearly continuous night-and-day battles.

The monarchs of antiquity knew what they wanted and why they wanted it and did not hesitate to tell. Cyrus captured Babylon for sheer lust of conquest. Darius invaded and attempted to conquer Greece because he thought he had the power to do so, but he was disillusioned at Marathon. Xerxes resumed the enterprise which Darius had been compelled to abandon saying: "It is the manifest destiny of Persia to rule the world. Cyrus, Darius and Cambyses, my renowned predecessors, have subdued Asia and Africa; Europe remains. It devolves on me to finish what they have begun."

Caesar overran and conquered the north of Italy, Switzerland, France, Germany and England. He did this upon various pretexts. There were standing topics of controversy and unsettled disputes among these nations. Caesar's plan was to draw near to the scene of contention and take sides with one party or the other and then master both and annex their territories to Rome.

The reasons assigned by Cyrus and Darius and Caesar and Xerxes and later by the monarchs of the Middle Ages for plunging their hands in blood were more plausible than those assigned by Kaiser Wilhelm for beginning a contest which has sent millions of men, women and children to premature graves.

Serbia refused to turn her courts over to Austrian judges for the prosecution of some assassins who murdered the Austrian Crown Prince and his wife. This was a matter between Austria and Serbia, and even if Russia backed Serbia in her refusal it is not clear that the German Kaiser was therefore called upon to attack Russia or France or to afford Turkey encouragement and opportunity to murder Armenians without interference.

England entered the war for the noble reason that Germany was bound by her treaty to respect the neutrality of Belgium. The United States was forced into the war by Germany suddenly withdrawing her apology for sinking the Lusitania and her promise to pay a money indemnity to the families of the Americans murdered, and announcing her intention to sink, without warning, any American ships sailing on the high seas within what the Kaiser declared to be a war zone.

In this declaration of the Kaiser, taken in connection with his previous acts and declarations, we saw—we would have been blind not to see—his purpose to achieve a world conquest that would, if effectuated, have reduced this nation to the position of a German dependency and subjected both public and private treasure to be looted by Germany.

It has cost us a good deal and it will cost us a good deal more to keep our country upon the map of the world as a free and independent nation. Germany is a bandit who says to the United States "Your money or your life." Our reply is, "You shall have neither. We do not want in reprisal your money—for you have none—but we will help to take, or rather to reconstruct, your national life, for under the Hohenzollern rule you are not, as a nation, fit to exist any longer.

Star of Democracy.

Having been discovered by astronomers at Mt. Wilson solar observatory in California at a time when all America is back of President Wilson in the greatest of wars to make the world safe for democracy, it would be fine and fitting to name the new star Democracy. And may the star of democracy always shine!—[El Paso Times.

Think So?

The Alternative.

WHO MADE OUR FOURTH OF JULY?

BY CHARLES COKE WOODS.

ONE thing sure, it was not "made in Germany." The committee appointed by Congress to draft the "Declaration of Independence" did not have a German on it. And it is significant that the only time our great ally, Great Britain, warred against us was when she was misruled by a German King, George III. That was an eye-opener to England, and she has wisely been on guard against Germany ever since.

This is a good time to look into the beliefs and personal quality of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Who were they? Were they profiteers, or prophets? Were they self-exploiters, or servants of the people? Were these signers mere politicians, or were they real statesmen? Of all things these gentlemen and seers were not afraid of the word "Christianity." It is not a sectarian word. It is not a denominational word. It is a national word. It is an international word. It is a world word. The world issue this moment is definitely between autocracy and democracy, between a monarchical and murderous oppressor and the freedom-loving peoples of the earth. The world issue this hour is definitely between Kaiserism and Christianity. Again we repeat that the word Christian is neither sectional, sectarian, nor denominational, but the widest humanitarian word known to the world. If anybody objects to Christianity, let him go to Turkey, where murderous Mohammedanism runs riot in the slaughter of innocent Armenians. Or let him go to Germany, where Kaiserism and not Christianity, is in vogue.

Let us know that this fastidiousness now and then cropping out among us which considers "Christianity" a "scare word" is not, to say the least, unadulterated Americanism. It smacks of German propaganda. It is a drift Kaiserward. Do we not know that the American people have never had a President whom they did not require to indorse Christianity? At the same time their democracy has been shown in the fact that they have allowed the President to belong to any denomination he chose, or to be long to no denomination. But they have demanded him to be administratively Christian. No sneerer at Christianity can find his way to the Presidential chair.

Our Liberty soldiers are all of them fighting the big battle of Christianity against Kaiserism. All of our war aims are of the very essence of Christianity. No less a statesman than William E. Gladstone declared that he had been in public life for fifty years and that he had during that time come in contact with sixty master minds, and he declared that ALL OF THEM BUT FIVE WERE CHRISTIANS. Lincoln belonged to no denomination, but he was so greatly Christian that when the last breath fluttered from between his lips, his Secretary of State said in words which reached the ears of the world, "Now he belongs to the ages." Our fathers of the Mayflower began their immortal compact with the words, "In the name of God, amen." Think of saying "In the name of the Kaiser, amen." No. To us Americans that is unthinkable. We shout with Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death."

Thomas Jefferson was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Linn, in his Life of Jefferson, says: "However opposed Mr. Jefferson may have been to what he considered the corruptions or abuses of Christianity, yet to the spirit and precepts of the gospel he was strongly attached, and of our Saviour he was a warm and professed admirer." And in a book recently edited by Dr. Arthur H. Delong, on page 45, entitled, "Tributes of Great Men to Jesus Christ," we find further words of this third President of the United States. They were written in a book in which he had made a collection of the sayings of Jesus. Mr. Jefferson says: "A more beautiful and precious morsel of ethics I have never seen; it is a document in proof that I am a real Christian; that is to say, a disciple of the doctrines of Jesus." Thomas Jefferson attended the Episcopal Church to which his wife belonged, and he had his children baptized in that church, and was himself buried according to its rites.

John Adams was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Was this great American afraid of Christianity? Sanders declares in his "Biography of the Signers" that his piety was "always fervent and sincere, and the regular attention to the duties of worship in the church of which he was a member for sixty years and to which he afterward bequeathed property worth $10,000, was one of the habits of his life endured to the last."

The name of Benjamin Franklin is familiar to every American. While he was somewhat skeptical in his youth, he outgrew it in his mature manhood. In Lessing's "Eminent Americans" and in Franklin's "Autobiography" it is shown that he became a firm believer in Christianity. He said: "The Christian religion is the best of all religions." He called himself "a Protestant of the Church of England, holding in the highest veneration the doctrines of Jesus Christ." In the Constitutional convention of 1787, Franklin offered a motion for daily prayers, introducing it with a short speech in which he argued the propriety of it, and declared his firm belief in the efficacy of prayer. This fact is recorded in Chaplin's "Life of Franklin." What attitude would this great American signer of the Declaration of Independence take now, if he were living, toward Kaiserism? To ask such question is to answer it—that he would be a leader somewhere among the cohorts against the Kaiser.

Roger Sherman was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. It is said of him that "He was exemplary in his attendance to the forms and disciplines of the church to which he was attached, he evinced by his conduct the importance of the application of the doctrines of Christianity to the duties of social life."

Another member of the committee appointed by Congress to draft the Declaration of Independence was Robert R. Livingston, but he died before the Declaration was issued. But Sanderson's "Biography of the Signers" declares that "they were men who owned the restraints of religion." Many of them were aggressive and enthusiastic advocates of Christianity. This was notably true of Benjamin Rush, Stephen Hopkins, Matthew Thornton, Samuel Huntington, William Williams, Oliver Wolcott, Phillip Livingston, Richard Stockton, John Hart, Thomas Stone, John Witherspoon and Robert Treat Paine. The last two mentioned were ministers of the gospel.

These were the immortals who made our American Fourth of July. The small boy may think that it means firecrackers, but his grandfather knows that it means faith and character. Your boy may think the chief meaning of the Fourth of July is racket, but his father knows that it means righteousness. We need a fresh appreciation of American righteousness. On this very day the descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence are fighting for the very principles enunciated in that immortal document. That Continental Congress was a Christian Congress. The signing of the Declaration was accompanied by prayer. To deny this is to acknowledge that the denier is not familiar with the history of those heroes.

The makers of our Declaration of Independence were the makers of our Fourth of July. We ought to consider afresh the democracy of that document. Even then it was "Of the people, by the people, and for the people." Note the recognitions in that American pronouncement. It recognized God as our Creator. It recognized His providence in the affairs of men. It spoke of the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as being derived from Him. It declared the Christian principle of the equality of political rights for all men. The makers of that document appealed to God as the Supreme Ruler of the universe, for the righteousness of their intentions. Every school child in America ought to be taught the content of our Declaration of Independence. Every graduate of every high school, academy, college and university should be required to pass satisfactory examination on the content of this document. And every professor should be sworn to allegiance to the spirit and principles of this declaration, before he be given any place in any of our educational institutions. It is our fundamental faith. It is our American Magna Carta. Its principles constitute the rock on which our nation rests. Its great faith is now emblazoned on all the world's flags of freedom. Its jeweled forefinger points forward to the triumph of Liberty's legions over the hellhounds of the accursed Kaiser. As surely as the battlements of Babylon went into the dust, so surely shall the bludgeons of Berlin be broken. The deadly darts of God are now hurling like raining fire across and through the doomed thrones of the Teutons.

For God and good still hold the throne,
And right shall conquer wrong."

THE LONG, LONG TRAIL.

There were times, in the ample leisure of our journey from America to France, when we envied the transport crews, and there were times when we did not. A lot depended, for instance, on the weather. We enjoyed watching them work; we picked up snatches of their lingo and made it part and parcel of our own army shop talk; we found among them fellows who had known Bill Jones and Joe Robinson for years, just as we had.

Then we landed, and so many things began to happen, and have kept on happening, that the navy and its men have perhaps almost gone out of our minds—have become half a memory, half an anticipation.

They got us over, but their task has not stopped there. They are keeping us going. Food, clothes, smokes—they bring it all. Remember, when that long-awaited letter from home finally reaches your hands, that, in order to get it to you, blue-uniformed lads took pot shots at floating targets (and smashed them,) faced Atlantic gales in a pitching foretop, and scanned the waste of ocean, with unflagging and untiring vigilance, for signs of the Hun water rat.—[Stars and Stripes, France.

FRAT PINS AND BRASS TACKS.

The visitors' book had spaces for "Occupation in Civil Life," "College," "Fraternity or Club." It was thick with "Banker," "Journalist," "Bond Salesman," "Insurance Agent," "Doctor," "Uplift Work," "Y.M.C.A.," "Retired," "Lawyer," "Manufacturer" and "Merchant;" with "Yale," "Ohio State," "Sewanee," "Purdue," "Berkeley" and "Washington;" with "Beta Theta Pi," "D.K.E.," "Charter," "Campus," "Psi U," "Sigma Nu," "Gorgon Head" and "Skull and Serpent." It was thick with everything.

On and on the observer read, through a dreary waste of forgotten occupations, a deal of college and university titles and a deal of secret, mystic symbolism. Suddenly, out of the fog and miasma of all that mass there stood out these words:

"Occupation: SOLDIER."

"College: UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY."

"Fraternity or Club: NONE."

Written in a good, clear round hand, they quite eclipsed the more ornate descriptions-of-self with which the page was cluttered. They looked business-like. They looked democratic. They looked real.—[Stars and Stripes, France.

Light and Power.

Fourteen Hundred Dollars Daily Lost; Hundred Thousand for Plant; Wire Wanted in France.

WAR efficiency has finally come to grips with war waste as represented by the Public Service Commission in duplicating existing light and power lines in Los Angeles. Acting President Mallard of the City Council yesterday directed the clerk to produce at this morning's session of that body the operating contract between the City and the Southern California Edison companies.

"Today's report shows that the city is now receiving about $600 a day from the Edison Company for power furnished," announced Mr. Mallard. "Last year the average was $1200 a day. It looks to me as though there is something radically wrong. I think we have waited for an investigation long enough.

"I think we have waited too long," added Councilman Criswell.

While the Council was calling for this investigation, two special agents were reported to be investigating the power situation in Los Angeles. These agents represent the Federal Fuel Commission. The attention of that body has been called by repeated reports to the fact that the Public Service Committee has disregarded instructions from the Fuel Administrator and is persisting in duplicating existing light and power lines, notably in the East Seventh-street industrial district.

LARGE EXPENDITURE.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Public Service body, Commissioner Erkenbrecher admitted that the commission had expended $110,000 recently in building a substation at Mateo and Hunter streets and in stringing power wires to industrial plants in that vicinity. It is claimed that there is not one of these plants that could not now be served by one of the existing power companies from poles or conduits now in place.

While these developments were taking place at the City Hall and in the offices of the Public Service Board, two crews of city linemen were busily engaged in the industrial district stringing reels of electric power wire along streets that are now wired both by the Southern California Edison Company and the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company. Fifteen of them were at work on East Ninth and Lemon streets. They were stringing a new cable in the midst of the cables of the other two power companies.

Mayor Woodman wired Federal Fuel Administrator Fulsom last Saturday that, "construction on Seventh street is practically completed." This message was sent in reply to a message from Mr. Fulsom stating that he had received a report that the city was duplicating existing power lines.

Since Mayor Woodman wired the report that work was practically finished employees of the Public Service Board have strung more than 4500 feet of electric power wire on Lemon and Santa Clara streets.

Mayor Woodman's reference to East Seventh street was plainly not intended to include other streets in that district, as yesterday's activities revealed.

SOME DUPLICATIONS.

Here is a partial list of duplications just finished by the Public Service Commission in the Seventh street industrial district:

Line from Seventh and Mateo streets east to Meyers street and thence to junction of Rio Arreet and Stephenson avenue. This line contains more than three miles of copper wire. Its objective is the plant of the Citizens' Ice Company. But the Edison Company has a line now running to the ice company's plant, and has been supplying it with emergency power and was ready to supply it with all the hydroelectric power it can use.

Line on Industrial street from Mateo to Alameda streets. This is to supply the Union Ice Company's plant, which can be supplied by either of the existing companies.

Greatest of all is a line on Mateo street from Ninth street to Palmetto street, that carries six miles of copper wire.

When one recalls that copper wire is quoted at $1 a pole line foot, and that the county is being combed for copper wire to be used in replacing stolen and captured lines in France, the extent and meaning of this duplication becomes apparent.

Chairman Robertson of the Public Service Commission said yesterday that the city had invaded the East Seventh-street industrial district for the purpose of supplying hydro-electric power to a score of plants that now use fuel-generated steam or fuel oil.

"Our whole idea has been the conservation of fuel," said Mr. Robertson. "The Citizens' Ice Company and other companies now use fuel oil in supplying them with hydro-electric power we are rendering a valuable service to the government and to our Allies in conserving fuel.

"Whenever we supply hydro-electric power to a plant that is now using fuel-generated power from the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company we are performing a public service. We are not supplying consumers that are now taking hydro-electric power from the Edison Company."

Mr. Robertson's argument has not proved convincing, however, to the Federal fuel administrators. They have retorted that the Edison Company is ready to take every kilowatt of hydro-electric power that the city generates on the aqueduct and to cut down its consumption of fuel oil in proportion.

"There is no saving effected," say the Federal commissioners, "when the city supplies to a customer of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company power that the Edison Company is willing to take. If the city had power going to waste it would be different. But every time the city runs a duplicate line to a customer of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company it is wasting the time of labor and material represented, for it could turn the same power over to the Edison Company, from which it has a distributing contract, without expending a dollar."

As viewed by the Federal fuel officials, the admission by the Public Service Commission that it has expended $100,000 in invading the East Seventh-street industrial district is an admission of a clear waste of that $100,000 at a time when every dollar is needed to fill the Federal war chest.

QUESTION OF "POLICY."

W. B. Mathews, attorney for the public service body, said yesterday that the invasion of the East Seventh-street industrial district involved only a question of policy.

"We found territory there that was using power produced by fuel and fuel oil," he said. "The Edison Company was not equipped at present to supply it. To do so the company would have to construct new power lines. It was a question whether the city should construct the lines or permit the Edison Company to do so. The cost would be the same, so far as the government and the public are concerned.

"If the city built the lines it would have them permanently. Remember that the city is supplying power to the Edison Company on a two-year contract and that one year has expired. Would it not be better for the city to own those distributing lines in the industrial district when the temporary contract expires than to have them owned by a competing company, which the Edison becomes at the termination of its contract?"

SAVING FUEL OIL?

Mr. Mathews said that no customers will be taken from the Edison Company, but that the city will pick up all the customers of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company that it can get. "Whenever we take a customer from the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company," he said, "we are saving the fuel oil and natural gas which go into the development of that power. We are performing a public service."

"Performing a public service" is the natural function of a Public Service Commission. But the local commissioners will not admit that they would be performing an identical service if they turned the power over to the Edison Company and permitted it to close its steam plant at Long Beach, which is now operated by fuel oil. In passing round the table at which the Public Service Commissioners sit and talking to each, one simply argues around a circle without getting anywhere. And while this argument is taking place, employees of the commission are stringing miles of copper wire that is badly needed just now in connecting up the new line of defense on the western front in France.

WHAT FIGURES SHOW.

While the Public Service Commissioners assert that the city is not paralleling any of the lines of the Edison Company or supplying any of its customers, the fact remains, as revealed by Chairman Mallard of the Council yesterday morning, that the Edison Company is supplying the city only $600 a day now for power, whereas it was paying $2000 a day for power last year.

Those figures do not indicate that the city has helped the Edison Company to make any marked saving in fuel oil through supplying the company with hydro-electric power. They indicate that the company is taking less and less from the city, and consequently consuming just that much more fuel oil in generating electric power.

One would expect the figures to read $600 last year and $2000 this year if one is to accept the explanation of the Public Service Commission. But that difference between $2000 a day and $600 a day looks very much like $1400 a day of gross waste.

IS MUCH MARRIED?

Alleged Husband of Three Women, all with Families, is Arrested on Los Angeles Complaint.

Sheriff Cline received information yesterday that F. H. von Emmel, the alleged husband of three wives, one of whom lives in Los Angeles, had been taken into custody in San Francisco. It is said that the three women live in Stockton, Napa and Los Angeles, respectively. The rest followed the action of the Los Angeles wife in putting the officers on the track of her recreant husband.

It is said that the first wife, at Stockton, has one 14-year-old daughter; the second wife, at Napa, has three children, the oldest of whom is 8, and the Los Angeles wife has one 18-months-old baby. The third wife pursued the man across the continent from Cambridge, Mass., in an effort to recover $1400, which it is alleged he secured from her.

FIVE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY FOR DISLOYALTY.

NO TOLERATION is to be given the "enemy within our gates," as personified by the disloyal American or hyphenate who breathes derogatory remarks about this government or its military establishment, if the action of the Federal grand jury yesterday in indicting five men for alleged violations of the Espionage and Selective Draft acts is to be taken as a criterion. Eleven indictments were returned by the Federal investigators, two of which were secret.

The principal accusations returned other than those for violating war statutes were against Miss Elsie Burns and Miss Mary Smith, now in jail in San Diego, accused of using the mails to defraud soldiers in a matrimonial scheme.

Under the indictment, Miss Burns and Miss Smith are declared to have corresponded with soldiers in cantonments throughout the country, notably at Camp Kearny, with a view to marriage. It is said they offered to go to their soldier admirers, after an exchange of photographs, and on condition that railroad fare was forwarded them. Once in possession of the fare the girls are said to have promptly forgotten the soldier in question and proceeded to operate on other gullible men. The girls are to be brought to Los Angeles for trial.

Bernard Capune, former pastry cook at the Los Angeles Country Club, was indicted for Espionage Act violation. He is said to have told colored waiters at the club that the United States was not treating their race as it should be treated, and otherwise indulged in pro-German talk.

Albert K. Kieff and William P. Richards are under indictment for failing to register for the draft. Carl de Schell is held under indictment for violation of the Espionage Act.

Federal action was taken against E. K. Brooks for violation of the Espionage Act in connection with an alleged insult to the American flag at Calexico, following which he was struck on the head by a "soda pop" bottle in the hands of a loyal Mexican.

William O. Gould was indicted on a charge of perjury, embodying an alleged pension fraud said to have been perpetrated by his mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Gould, otherwise known as Smith. This action was taken following a recent indictment charging Gould with conspiracy to defraud the government in regard to the charge against his mother. Mrs. Gould-Smith recently pleaded not guilty before Federal Judge Bledsoe and her trial will take place sometime this month.

LOCAL STEAM ROADS TO MERGE TICKET OFFICES.

Southern Pacific, Salt Lake and Santa Fe to Combine in this City.

CONSOLIDATION of the city ticket offices of the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Salt Lake roads is now being arranged, and it is expected that by September 1 all tickets for these three lines will be sold from one office.

Representatives of the roads are now meeting in Chicago with representatives of the National Railway Administration, and when they return to Los Angeles it is expected that the location of the new joint office and other details will be announced. It is understood that the location most favorably considered and the one which, as things stand now, will probably be accepted, is the ground floor of the Coulter Building, Nos. 215-225 (Broadway.

It is said that the original location of the Coulter Dry Goods Company store, and is now occupied by a branch of that establishment, the main store being in the company's new building at Seventh and Olive streets.

Verification of the report that a consolidation had been ordered by Director-General McAdoo and was now being effected was secured yesterday from C. J. Balfour of the passenger department of the Southern Pacific and Assistant General Passenger Agent Hyde of the Santa Fe. Similar consolidations are being arranged in San Francisco and all of the other large cities of the country. The ticket offices of lines not actually running into Los Angeles, such as the Denver and Rio Grande, New York Central, Pennsylvania, etc., were closed two months ago by order of the Director-General.

It is expected that the personnel of the office forces at the ticket offices of the Southern Pacific, now in the Van Nuys Building; of the Santa Fe, at No. 611 South Hill street, and of the Salt Lake, at No. 601 South Spring street, will be merged into one office force, and tickets for all lines sold over the same counter.

PASTOR RETURNING.

Rev. Robert Freeman of Pasadena Reaches Atlantic Port on Way Back from France.

Rev. Robert Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, arrived at an Atlantic port yesterday from France, where he had been preaching under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Freeman will stay in New York for a short while before returning to Pasadena.

The chimes in the church at the Crown City played "Home, Sweet Home," "Keep the Home Fires Buring" and patriotic airs when it was learned that the pastor had reached the United States. A big welcome will be given Rev. Freeman when he returns to take up his former duties at the church. He will arrive here the latter part of this month and is scheduled to preach his first sermon at Pasadena on August 4.

Poslam Made To Heal Your Broken-Out Skin

If you attend to Pimples, Rashes and all skin troubles with Poslam, and do so promptly, they will not develop and spread.

Unless you have actually seen Poslam's work and know how readily it takes hold, stopping the itching at once, you will hardly believe its effects possible in so short a time.

In Eczema, Poslam's action appears all the more remarkable when the trouble is persistently stubborn and nothing else seems to bring lasting relief. Poslam is harmless always.

MARKET AGAIN LIMITED TO THE PROFESSIONALS.

Irregular Recovery from Previous Day Set Back at Close.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 2.—On limited professional dealings, today's stock market made irregular recoveries of 1 to 2¼ points from yesterday's setback, but much of this advantage was cancelled in the final hour, on reports of new financing by one of the foremost industrial corporations.

The severe arraignment of the Federal Trade Commission against profiteering by various companies engaged in fulfilling war contracts was again employed by the bears as a weapon to depress prices, although with indifferent success.

Banking interests were perhaps more concerned at the prospects of early control by the government over telegraph and telephone systems of the country, and by threatened extension of labor troubles in the New England textile industry.

Some of the smaller manufacturing companies were reported to be seeking new capital issues, subject to the approval of the War Finance Corporation, and reports prevalent in the metal trade indicated an upward revision of copper prices by the War Industries Board.

United States Steel featured today's trading, so far as it possessed any especial feature, just as it did the reactionary movement of the preceding session. Its extreme rally of 1¾ points was partly impaired at the end.

Bethlehem Steel forfeited its fractional gain and an additional point, and other equipments of the same class suffered variable reactions in the later profit taking. Metals and oils yielded much of their advance, and motors, shippings and rails were sluggish or uncertain. Sales $65,000 shares.

Bonds were irregular, Liberty issues, however, making nominal gains. Internationals were uneven within narrow limits. Total sales, par value, were $4,550,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Apricots continued to arrive at the local Produce Exchange yesterday and sold at a high level, but a smash in prices is expected next week owing to the fact that large shipments are expected to come in from the Ventura and Hemet districts.

The farmers state they will have a tremendous yield this season, and it is rumored about the market that few apricots will be canned this year because of the large quantity of sugar it takes to preserve them and also because the government, as yet, has not placed any orders with the farmers for the army and navy.

Receipts at the Produce Exchange yesterday were 115 cases of eggs, 7980 pounds of butter, 2150 pounds of cheese and 350 sacks of potatoes.

Instructions governing butter sales, issued by the United States Food Administration, have been received by F. M. Hudson, secretary of the Los Angeles Produce Exchange.

The rules govern all transactions in butter held in cold storage and not removed for distribution within thirty days. Butter removed from cold storage for distribution within thirty days shall be considered fresh stock.

Licensees dealing in cold-storage butter shall sell such butter without regard to the market or replacement value at the time of the sale and at not more than a reasonable advance over the cost to them of the particular butter sold, provided any dealer averages the cost of all cold-storage butter of the same grade placed by him in a cold-storage warehouse in any calendar month. In such case he may sell such butter at not more than a reasonable advance over such cost. When a dealer averages the cost of any butter stored in a calendar month he must average the cost of all butter stored in that month, and the cost shall not include any allowance for shrinkage in weight or commissions.

The licensee must be able to furnish to the United States Food Administration or Food Administrator of this State a full report on costs and margins charged or on the maximum charged in any given period for any grade of butter or other information which may be considered necessary.

The Food Administration will consider the sale of any grade of cold-storage butter by any dealer other than manufacturer or retailer at an advance over cost of more than the following margins as prima facie evidence of a violation of the Food Control Act: One cent per pound on carlot sales; 1¼ cents on less than carlots amounting to 7000 pounds; 1¾ cents on less than 7000 pounds, but amounting to 700 pounds, and 2½ cents per pound on sale of less than 700 pounds.

In addition to the selling margin, which normally should be considered below the above maximum margins and must in no case exceed such maximum margins, any dealer who carries butter in cold storage more than two full calendar months may add a margin of 1 cent per pound and an additional ¼ cent per pound for each calendar month hereafter during which he carries the butter in storage. The total amount shall not exceed 2 cents per pound.

The maximum advances must be exceeded in selling any lot of cold-storage butter and the prices charged by any dealer must not in any case be more than sufficient to return to him a reasonable profit on his investment.

Where cold-storage butter is transferred by any dealer to a branch of such dealer in the same or in another city, such transfer shall not be made at an advance over cost of more than ¼ cent a pound. Any sale by a dealer to another dealer at a price higher than the price which the second dealer would have to pay in buying on the open market will be considered evidence of a collusive sale. Any manufacturer who acts as a wholesaler or jobber shall be subjected in such action to the rules and maximum margins governing wholesalers and jobbers, provided that, in figuring his purchase price as a wholesaler or jobber, he shall either compute the cost of raw materials and the expense of manufacture or consider as his cost the market quotation on the kind and grade of butter placed in cold storage as quoted in a well-recognized daily commercial price-current list, and on the day when the goods are placed in cold storage.

Any dealings in which a profit accrues to the dealer without corresponding service are clear violations of the food act and will subject the offender to revocation of license.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of tides one hour should be added to the various times mentioned in order to conform with the daylight-saving law. The daily tides are given in the order of their occurrence, corresponding with the early morning tide in the left-hand side column, and the succeeding tides of the day. In some days but three tides occur, the fourth tide occurring on the following morning. Comparison will show the high and low.

MEETING ON MILK PRICE TO BE HELD.

NO ACTION BY FOOD OFFICIAL FOR WEEK; TWO BAKERS FOUND GUILTY.

There will be no action taken by the Los Angeles Food Administration regarding the raising of the price of milk from 13 cents per quart to 14 cents by the milk distributers of this city until next Monday when a conference of distributers has been called by Louis M. Cole, City Food Administrator. The meeting, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed to allow investigation of the statements of the milk distributers that they cannot sell milk at the old price at a profit.

Two convictions and one continuance of alleged violations of the wheat flour rule in local bakeries was returned yesterday by the baker's jury. The first conviction was that of a baker who had placed too much vegetable compound in his bread. The law limits this compound to two pounds per barrel. In view of the fact that the man was observing all other rules governing the uses of wheat flours in commercial bread making, Mr. Cole simply gave him a reprimand and warning.

The other conviction was that of a baker who had not placed sufficient quantity of wheat flour substitutes in his bread. The defendant failed to make his appearance but the jury after considering the evidence decided that he was guilty. The man will be summoned before Mr. Cole this morning. Another case was continued in order that the jury might investigate the man's premises. He is accused of using too much wheat flour in his pastries.

The California Bakers Association announced yesterday that all bakeries will be closed Independence Day, July 4.

Mr. Cole has enlisted the services of twelve local business men who have agreed to donate one day of their time each week in assisting the Food Administration with the coming sugar certificate regulations governing allotments to manufactures, bakeries and public-eating houses.

Politics.

TO UNITE ON A CANDIDATE.

Want to Pick Strongest Man to Oppose Incumbent.

His Peace Policy Stirs the Citizens to Action.

BY THE WATCHMAN.

An anti-Randall mass meeting will be held in the Women's Club House, Alhambra, tonight.

Citizens of Alhambra and others living in the Sixty-ninth Assembly District are deeply interested in the outcome of the Congressional scrap. They believe the re-election of C. H. Randall, the man who is "for peace at any price" and has opposed the President's war policy every time he could, would be a national calamity, but they also realize that he can not be beaten by a weak candidate.

As a result, the several aspirants for the honor have been invited to attend tonight's powwow and they are expected to be present. They are Montaville Flowers of Monrovia, S. W. Odell of Pasadena, W. C. Mushet of this city, and E. R. Bryant of Glendale. It is probable, too, that J. W. Reagan, county flood control engineer, and R. M. Shearer, a well-known Democrat, will be there also.

It is planned by those who have arranged the meeting to pick out the most formidable candidate, or possibly the two strongest, and induce the others to get out. I seriously doubt that this proposition will be accepted by the candidates, for another similar attempt failed a few weeks ago.

Friends of Mr. Odell endeavored to induce W. C. Mushet to agree to an elimination plan, proposing that a meeting of the County Central Committee be held and the one securing the indorsement of the majority of the members be declared the only Republican candidate. Mr. Mushet would not stand for the deal, owing to the fact, he stated, that Mr. Odell's manager had "seen" the committeemen.

Just how each of the candidates will take to the plan offered for tonight is uncertain. However, it is expected that the final result will be the elimination of some of them.

Opponents of Congressman Randall do not anticipate much of a fight on the liquor question. They declare that it is a dead issue now and that the man to be elected in the Ninth District must go before the people with a clear war record and a clean reputation among Republicans.

It is anticipated that a strong man can badly defeat Randall for the Republican nomination and also for the Democratic honor. No one will oppose the incumbent for the Prohibition nomination, and in consequence he is certain to be a candidate at the final election.

Tonight's meeting marks the first of a series of similar gatherings. It is probable that other sections will call meetings for the purpose of deciding upon the most formidable of a lot of candidates for different offices.

FOR WOMEN'S HOSPITAL DAY.

Husband of Virginia Foltz, Daughter of Woman Attorney, Seeks Divorce.

Leslie D. Martin, the husband of Mrs. Virginia F. Martin, known on the stage as Virginia Foltz, an actress, filed suit for divorce through Attorney Gesner Williams yesterday. The ground is desertion. Mr. Williams declined to furnish any information why Mrs. Martin deserted her husband May 20, 1917, as the complaint alleges.

Mrs. Martin, who is a daughter of Clara Shortridge Foltz, woman attorney, was married November 22, 1912.

WIFE IS LEFT ALL.

By the provisions of the will of C. W. Watson of Pasadena, who died in that city June 22, the whole of his estate, consisting of real and personal property, is left to the wife, Florence N. Watson, who is nominated by the deceased as executrix of the estate without bond. The value of the estate is estimated at $65,000, consisting for the most part of stock in the Citizens' Savings Bank of Pasadena, notes, mortgages, etc.

SEVEN ALIENS ARE INTERNED.

Fifty-five Total from Here in Five Weeks.

With the departure yesterday of seven enemy aliens for internment at Fort MacArthur, a total of fifty-five enemy aliens have been sent to internment camps from Los Angeles within the last five weeks. The greater number have been interned at Fort Douglas, Utah.

The latest detachment was in charge of Deputy United States Marshal Kavanaugh. In order to familiarize himself with the ways of enemy aliens, United States Commissioner Long accompanied the Marshal to Fort MacArthur yesterday. The prisoners were turned over to the military authorities there to be sent to the internment camp under a guard of soldiers.

Among the contingent were three brothers, former residents of Pomona, Wilhelm Meitmann, 31 years old, a plasterer; Anton, 29 years old, a contractor, and Henry, 33, a plumber. The brothers are of German birth and came to the United States three years ago. They have lived in Southern California three months and their sympathies for the fatherland became so pronounced that neighbors in Pomona reported them to the Federal authorities.

THEY DON'T WORRY.

The prospective internment of the three brothers did not appear to worry them in the least. They boasted of having given the government agents the "slip" by quietly crossing the line into Mexico. When matters quieted down they returned over the line and were promptly taken into custody. The brothers bore a striking resemblance to one another, each exhibiting with pride a reddish beard which had been permitted to mature while in jail.

The four other aliens making up the party were William Morth, Gustav William August Wefer, William Lange and Alfred J. Pilz.

Morth went down in the records of the County Jail as the most recalcitrant individual who has been there for a long time, according to Chief Jailer Gallagher. He was arrested at the harbor on May 8, for airing his views in public as to when Germany was going to win the war. He is 49 years old and has lived in the United States thirty-four years, twenty of which have been spent in California.

TAKEN AT SAN DIEGO.

Wefer was arrested at San Diego. He says he is 31 years old, a clerk by occupation, and has resided in the United States four years, half of which time he has lived in California.

Lange was turned over to the government authorities at Santa Maria after he is said to have shouted out that Germany would win the war and the Kaiser would then come over to annex America. He is 32 years of age, has lived in the United States fifteen years and one year in California. He is a bartender by trade.

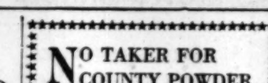
Pilz is 33 years old and a steelworker by trade. He was arrested in San Diego for making threats against the government. He has been a resident of the United States fourteen years, four of which he has spent in San Diego county.

NO TAKER FOR COUNTY POWDER.

Supervisors Find They Have White Elephant in Explosives.

The county, which had a white elephant on its hands in the Monolith cement plant until the Supreme Court decided that the county could not, under the law, operate a commercial plant, has an offspring of the white elephant in the shape of 800 cases of black powder and dynamite. When this explosive was advertised for sale sometime ago there was not a taker. The Supervisors desire to dispose of the powder and dynamite. Someone suggested that they donate it to the government.

The War at Home



The fact that government witnesses were delayed in coming from the timber country back of Rialto caused a continuance until this morning of the trial of John Schultz, charged with failing to register for the draft, before Federal Judge Bledsoe.

When the case was called yesterday morning Attorney Lou Guernsey stated he was ready to proceed and a jury was impaneled to try the case. Assistant United States Attorney Rucker, however, asked a continuance because of the difficulty of securing necessary witnesses from the mountains.

Schultz is a mountaineer of the rough and ready type. He was placed under arrest while making a periodic visit to his wife and children in Long Beach. He denies that he is a willful slacker, asserting that he was cutting spruce for airplanes in the mountains at the time the selective draft laws went into effect, and was not aware of such a law until he came out of the mountains and was arrested.

TEA WAS VERY THICK.

British Officer, Here on Recruiting Mission, Tells Humorous Tale of the Trenches.

Lieut. J. S. Dagger, who is here for the British and Canadian recruiting mission, yesterday told an amusing story of the trenches.

One night he was with his company in a trench about twenty-five yards from the Germans, and his lieutenant—Dagger was then a sergeant—said to him: "Sergeant, shall we have a cup of tea?"

A small fire was burning in one of the shell holes, camouflaged with trees and bushes to prevent observation by the Germans, and it was over this poor decrepid fire that the water was to be boiled. Sergt. Dagger took a pannikin and set off for another shell hole to get water, but a star shell went up and he lay three or four minutes, then crept on his way.

Returning with the water, Lieut. Dagger placed it on the fire and he and the lieutenant then commenced to smoke, waiting for the slow boiling of the water. Hardly had a minute elapsed when the lieutenant said: "Sergeant, the water is boiling." "Impossible," replied Sergt. Dagger, "that fire wouldn't boil water within half an hour." "It's boiling," repeated the lieutenant, and Sergt. Dagger, leaning forward, peered into the shell hole. Sure enough, bubbles were rising. The two men stared at each other amazed at this phenomena, and then both looked closely at the water, only to find that what they imagined were bubbles were little tadpoles, which the slowly-heating water had forced to the surface. "The tea was vurry vurry thick," ended Lieut. Dagger quietly in his quiet Scotch accent.

When asked about the Britishers who have not yet offered their services, Lieut. Dagger said: "God help them when they are drafted if Sergt. Allen and myself have a company of them."

TOOK AUTO, WANTS CITY TO PAY BILL.

Recently police officers commandeered an automobile owned by Earl L. Whidden and directed him to give chase to another car which was stolen. He complied with the request, and, while hitting a gait of forty miles an hour on Vermont avenue, his auto collided with another machine. As a result his car was badly damaged, and yesterday he asked the Council to pay the repair bill of $85. Chief Butler was directed to investigate the case and report to the Council.

Western Annapolis.

NAVAL STATION HAS BIRTHDAY.

Training Camp at the Harbor Year Old Today.

New Commanding Officer to Succeed Cantwell.

Review Saturday will be of Special Interest.

Today is the first anniversary of the arrival of the first contingent of naval reserve volunteers at the naval training camp at San Pedro. For this reason the regular Saturday review, modeled on the like events at West Point and Annapolis, will acquire greater significance this week, for within the year the camp has established itself as second in the country in efficiency and first in health records.

The camp at the harbor accommodates nearly 3000 men, and has grown so that recent arrivals now find the camp cots have run out and have swung hammocks as though they were on board a ship.

A new and distinguished commanding officer has just been appointed in Capt. Guy Whitlock, U.S. N., who succeeds Capt. J. C. Cantwell, in accordance with the arrangement by which men with seagoing experience are being allotted to this Coast. Owing to the station's record in efficiency—forty-three men cut of sixty-five in Co. D, alone have graduated as officers and being now in service aboard—it bids fair to become the Annapolis of the West. Indeed, the recent establishment of an official cadet corps—the corps in which young college men go directly into intensive training for commissions—places the San Pedro station on the same footing as Annapolis.

CAPT. WHITLOCK'S STAFF.

Capt. Whitlock has had long and distinguished naval experienc, and accompanied the American fleet during the Roosevelt administration on the battleship Nebraska, as lieutenant, in its voyage around the world. He was serving in Buenos Aires as naval attache in 1914 when the war broke out. He is now appointed commanding officer at San Pedro, supported by Lieut. John Mel, formerly of Pasadena, as executive officer, Lieuts. G. B. Vroom and G. H. Fort as instruction officers, Lieut. J. S. Farnsworth as aide, Lieut. W. A. Johnson as ordnance and gun officer, Lieut. W. L. Maxwell as engineering officer, Lieut. W. Irving as naval and seamanship officer, Lieut. J. H. Horsey as discipline and guard officer, Lieut. J. P. Pryor as detention camp officer, Lieut. J. L. Hall as personnel instructor, J. E. O'Brien as paymaster and Dr. O. B. Spalding as senior medical officer.

That the San Pedro training station ranks first in the United States for health is a fact which the authorities there modestly ascribe to the Southern California climate, but which doubtless received a little aid from their own efficiency. In the entire year of its being they have not a single death to record. They have had four cases of pneumonia and cured them with prompt sun baths. There has been only one case of spinal meningitis, and that was cured. They have a stylish isolation camp, which is generally empty.

ENVIABLE RECORD.

And during that entire year, Discipline Officer Lieutenant J. H. Horsey reports that there has been only one fight. The entire personnel of the camp is saving itself up for the Huns. There have likewise been no "drunks and disorderlies," which the authorities regard as remarkable, since the men were all raw recruits, and certainly during the first few months the enlistments were largely of those who had "lived their own lives."

Co. D, trained by Lieut. Horsey, is so far the camp's crack company—forty-five graduated officers out of sixty-five, all in active service on the Atlantic side. But nothing short of 95 per cent. is going to satisfy them, and to win them the Pacific Coast Annapolis distinction.

So the station will celebrate its first birthday today with more work and less play, to earn the coveted "liberty" over July Fourth.

RECEIVING HOSPITAL HAS FEWER CASES.

CLOSING OF SALOONS CREDITED WITH FALLING OFF IN NUMBER OF ACCIDENTS.

There were 4000 fewer cases of emergency treatment given at the Los Angeles Receiving Hospital from July 1, 1917, to July 1, 1918, than there were during the preceding year, according to the annual report of the institution presented yesterday by Chief Nurse Charles Whitehead.

"This decrease can be directly traced to the abolishing of saloons," the chief nurse said. "Monthly reports of the number of arrests for drunkenness show a decided falling off since April 1. Before the Gandier ordinance went into effect, we averaged an emergency case to every arrest for drunkenness."

The report shows that there were 23,517 cases handled last year. Of these, 12,571 were of civilians who had been injured on the street or in their homes. The balance were of city officers, such as firemen and policemen, who receive medical treatment free, and that given to prisoners in the city jails.

The report includes forty cases of poisoning, 275 for skull fracture, 400 for insanity, 420 attempted suicides, 288 bites of venomous snakes and insects, 210 motorcycle accidents. The majority of cases were caused by automobile accidents, which totaled 2130. Sixty persons were brought to the hospital after life was extinct.

DOESN'T GET LICENSE.

Under the Gandier anti-saloon ordinance a person convicted of violating the law automatically loses his liquor license. As a result the application of Enrico Lombardi for permission to continue the operation of his wholesale house at No. 160 North Main street, was denied by the Police Commission yesterday, he having been convicted upon a charge of selling liquor containing more than 14 per cent. of alcohol.

Are You the Dupe of a Patriotrick?

A PATRIOTRICK is a swindle by which your patriotism is twisted to serve the selfish interests of another. It usually takes the form of a spreading rumor that a certain brand of goods is owned or controlled by Alien Enemies. True patriots do not want to buy such goods and in times like these a lie has a thousand lives and travels on broad, fleet wings. The patriotrick is not a new trick. Dozens of loyal American, French and British firms suffered from it, even before America entered the war.

We and our customers are victims of it today. We can no longer ignore the fact that thousands of druggists and dentists have been told, and are innocently passing along the story, that Pebeco Tooth Paste is an Alien Enemy product.

The story is untrue. Its only possible foundation is the fact that the formula for Pebeco was originated years ago in the laboratory of a Hamburg scientist.

Pebeco has been made in New York City since 1903. Every share of Lehn & Fink stock and every dollar's worth of bonds are owned by American citizens.

Not one dollar from the sale of Pebeco Tooth Paste finds its way to any alien enemy or any alien interests. Sole license for the manufacture of Pebeco has been granted to Lehn & Fink by the United States Federal Trade Commission.

All the officers and directors of Lehn & Fink are American citizens, and only American capital is used. Lehn & Fink is not subsidized by nor connected with any other concern, American or Foreign.

Don't be the dupe of the patriotrickster.

Importance of Permanganate of Potash Subject of Addresses at Banquet.

The rapid growth of chemical industries in this city was a topic for discussion last evening when the thirty-five employees of Poindexter & Co., manufacturing chemists of Vernon, held a patriotic pre-Fourth-of-July banquet at McKee's Cafe.

R. W. Poindexter, Jr., mahager, outlined the growth of the company, which, only eighteen months old, is essentially a home product. Permanganate of potash, its chief product, is made from manganese ore, potash, and other raw materials from local sources

Permanganate of potash, although discovered in 1774 and used in large quantities for disinfecting purposes and metallurgically as an oxidizing agent, was until the war imported almost entirely from Germany. With this supply cut off and with California the largest producer of manganese, this city became the logical location for the new industry.

TO CELEBRATE FOURTH.

Allies Committee Announces Programme for Affair at Central Park.

An extensive programme has been arranged by the Allies Committee for the celebration of the Fourth of July tomorrow at Central Park. The committee will meet representatives of the Allied nations and the Coast Artillery Band at Fourth and Main streets tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock and proceed through Fourth street and Broadway and Fifth street to Central Park, where the celebration will be held.

The opening number on the programme will be "The Star Spangled Banner," presented by the Coast Artillery Band, to be followed by a parade of representatives of the Allied nations carrying their flags past the speaker's stand. The address of welcome and introduction of the speaker of the evening will be given by Councilman Criswell. Federal Judge Bledsoe will deliver an oration, and selections by the Half Century Association Glee Club will follow. Short speeches will be made by members of patriotic organizations, and the celebration will close with selections by the band.

SELL COUNTY COWS.

Record prices were realized by Supervisor Dodge as auctioneer at the County Farm yesterday from the sale of cows and hogs. A total of $100 was realized from nine cows, which brought $9.50 a hundred on the hoof, and $700 from twenty-one hogs at $16.95 a 100.

Proof

There's proof aplenty that quality printing pays and pays well. Take for instance your letterheads. They are a powerful clew as to the character and stability of your business. Cheaply prepared letterheads invariably inculcate a negative attitude on the part of your prospective customer or client.

Dress up your business. Clothe it with high class letterheads and other finely prepared stationery,—the kind that "breathes" prosperity and creates prestige. Put character into all your printing by employing the services of the "Times" printing organization.

Business stationery, copper engraved and steel die embossed work, folders, booklets, catalogs, programs, etc. A representative will call at your request.
